THIS:
"Attack Delays Investigations

By Margaret Cronin Fisk
National Law Journal
September 17, 2001

Additional details emerged Friday about the effect of the collapse of 7 World Trade Center on investigations being conducted by the New York offices of the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, both of which were housed in the building.

The SEC has not quantified the number of active cases in which substantial files were destroyed. Reuters news service and the Los Angeles Times published reports estimating them at 3,000 to 4,000. They include the agency's major inquiry into the manner in which investment banks divvied up hot shares of initial public offerings during the high-tech boom.

The EEOC said documents from about 45 active cases were missing and could not be easily retrieved from any backup system. One of these cases was a sexual harassment charge filed on Sept. 10 against Morgan Stanley, one of the prime corporate victims of the World Trade Center disaster.

A statement from the commission said that "we are confident that we will not lose any significant investigation or case as a result of the loss of our building in New York. No one whom we have sued or whose conduct we have been investigating should doubt our resolve to continue our pursuit of justice in every such matters."

But the short-term problems will be immense, said Gregory Joseph of New York's Law Offices of Gregory Joseph.

"Court papers can largely be reconstituted, but work product has to be reconstructed," he said. "This will cause delays in court and will require significant reduplication of effort." Some data, he added, "won't be recreatable."

"Ongoing investigations at the New York SEC will be dramatically affected because so much of their work is paper-intensive," said Max Berger of New York's Bernstein Litowitz Berger & Grossmann. "This is a disaster for these cases."

"The SEC will have some difficulty, but the bounce-back will come relatively easily," predicts Harvey Goldschmid, Dwight professor of law at Columbia University and former general counsel of the SEC. "It will throw things off for a period of time, but most of what's important can be regained. They will have to reconstruct these documents. But most of this was backed up or in Washington. They've lost some transcripts but even they're available."

EEOC Records Destroyed

The EEOC's New York office, which was housed in 7 World Trade Center, sustained no loss of life. But all the agency's records were destroyed.

Many of the files are backed up in the computer system, but a substantial number of documents are simply gone, said Spencer Lewis, the EEOC district director. Depositions and notes were not scanned into computers and are lost. With depositions and interviews, the agency will be contacting court reporters "and hoping that they've got them so we can reconstruct files," Lewis said. This covers about 45 active cases, including a recent action against Morgan Stanley.

But employment litigators believe the effect here, too, will be transitory.

"The EEOC is decimated as far as office space goes," but any problems are "only short-term," said Michael Weber of the New York office of Littler Mendelson. "They will get back to business." The agencies will be seeking documents from the private law firms and defendants, Weber notes. "My sense is that we will cooperate," he noted. "Our goal is not to take advantage of this catastrophe."

"A lot of their records they'll have online, so they'll just reprint them out," adds Harkins. "The EEOC is in a better position than the SEC, because the SEC has a lot more confidential files.""

I tried to buy 100 watt bulbs at WalMart yesterday. They had none.

However, I did get six 95 watt bulbs. It appears that the regulations set standards for bulb naming. Have we been getting cheated by "100 watt" bulbs that only consume 95 watts? Another proof of the inherent dishonesty of free-trade capitalism?

(and the "95"s claim to produce 100 watts of light)

Of course they most likely didn't walk away and leave that gold spike in there.That much gold nowadays is worth a small fortune.

A couple of days ago on Deutsche Welle Journal on tv LINK channel, they were talking about scrap computers and electronics/stuff, recycling in Germany.I think they said a ton of electronics yields about 400 milligrams of gold.

Liberty Net: December 25, 2010

http://3950.net/2011/01/liberty-net-december-25-2010/

by Kevin Strom, WB4AIO

THE YULETIDE EDITION of the Liberty Net was an informal one, as the whole net was run in the friendly roundtable mode. The heavens blessed the net, too ï¿½ at least as far as propagation was concerned!

Hereï¿½s a small sample of the issues discussed on this weekï¿½s session of amateur radioï¿½s most significant net:

ï¿½ All sane and ethical people want to protect the environment, but thatï¿½s no excuse for empowering Washington criminals to be our eco-dictators. Now the criminals have decided to ban incandescent lamps for all area lighting. This means that those who need true color rendition, or those for whom the lack of a true white spectrum can negatively affect their mood, or those with failing eyesight will simply be out of luck. (15 minutes)

ï¿½ The Atkinson Cycle engine bids fair to increase the city gas mileage of hybrid vehicles to an honest 40 miles per gallon. (25 minutes)

ï¿½ The biggest problem faced by our civilization is demographic. Whites, who alone have the creative intelligence, character, and desire to maintain and advance that civilization, are going extinct and are being replaced by more primitive peoples. We all know what is happening in America in that regard ï¿½ but did you know that 50 per cent. of the children now being born in the Netherlands are of non-White Muslim background? (43 minutes)

ï¿½ When Deutsche Bank AG was fined in the US for fraud so severe that the penalty was over 500 million dollars (and other banks have paid such fines too), why are there no criminal charges? Why is no one arrested? Itï¿½s beginning to look like the Washington regime profits a bit too handsomely from financial crime ï¿½ and has its reasons for coddling the fraudsters. (56 minutes)

ï¿½ Why is it that an alleged ï¿½peaceï¿½ president approves of the largest military budget in decades, and continues the murderous wars of aggression that he promised to stop? (1 hour 12 minutes)

ï¿½ The Mexican invasion of New Jersey is so bad, and home invasions so common, that the Jackson County police have mass-dialed home owners in that county, warning them of the danger and urging those going on holiday trips to make it look like their homes are occupied. Only 20 years ago, when the area was nearly all White, people routinely left their cars and homes unlocked, and crime was very low. (1 hour 30 minutes)

Thanks to Marty, N2IRJ, youï¿½re able to listen to the Liberty Net on your computer ï¿½ or download the file and listen on your portable mp3 player. And Al, N2SAG operates a live feed and chat during Net times that lets you make an end run around jammers and a fickle ionosphere.

Join in or listen to the most exciting net on the amateur bands every Saturday night, starting at 10PM Eastern Time.

Our deepest thanks go to W1WCR for his hard work and courage in running the Liberty Net, which is now entering its 37th year.

I reckon they don't drop that big ball anymore.Do they?
Hell, they done screwed it up! A few seconds after midnight, I clicked back on watching Back to the Future on the AMC channe.

Top five reasons there should be a Back to the Future Four movie.
1. The time machine car needs an upgrade and only Doc.Brown knows how to do it.

2. Marty needs a new alias.

3. We need to meet all of Biff's family tree.

4. and 5. I done forgot.

Band allocations and time zone conversions for the USA. Includes broadcast bands used outside the USA. For multi-use bands, primary usage is shown.
Some stations operate outside official bands. Information is from Oct 2008 FCC rules and Sep 2009 NTIA manual, see Chapter 4 of:
http://www.ntia.doc.gov/osmhome/redbook/redbook.html

Frequencies are in kHz. Usual spacing in shortwave broadcast bands is 5 kHz. Frequencies above 10000 kHz tend to propagate better during the day; frequencies below 10000 kHz tend to propagate better at night.

Phone line as SW antenna

Changes preceded by "|".

WARNINGS AND DISCLAIMERS

Connecting unapproved devices to phone lines may be illegal in your area.
Telephone lines present a potential shock hazard. Do not use this antenna for transmitting. Use at your own risk.

INTRODUCTION

This article describes how to use a phone line as a shortwave receiving antenna. Performance will vary depending on the kind of phone line you have. Overhead lines usually make okay antennas, while underground lines | usually don't. Phone lines carrying DSL service may be unsuitable because | DSL operates over a wide spectrum. A phone line antenna will generally pick up more power line noise than a dedicated antenna, so don't expect to | use it for DX work. Nevertheless, I found that it outperformed the | telescopic whip antennas built into many portables.

A reader sent in this suggestion: If you're concerned about connecting the phone line directly to the receiver, try wrapping the phone cord several times around the receiver's telescopic whip antenna instead.
Performance may not be as good as a direct connection, but it will probably be better than the whip antenna by itself.

Someone else wrote asking about lightning protection. I haven't thought much about it because thunderstorms are rare in my area. Most phone lines have lightning arrestors on them where they enter the house, but the lightning arrestors may pass enough energy during a lightning strike damage a receiver. My suggestion is to disconnect the antenna when not in use if you experience frequent thunderstorms.

HOW TO DO IT

The simplest connection is a single capacitor between the phone line and receiver. The capacitor eliminates all phone line voltages, including | ringing, so that they will not harm the receiver. The capacitor should
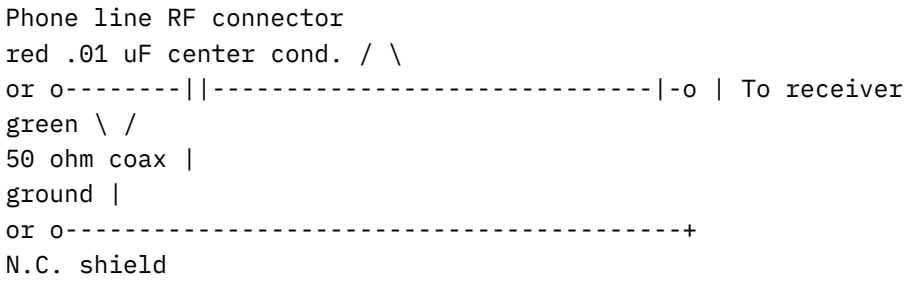
| be rated 250 volts or higher.



N.C. = no connect. I originally connected the phone line ground (yellow wire) to this terminal, but reception was better without it (if you do this, play it safe and put a .01 uF capacitor in series). If another ground is available, you can connect it to this terminal.

If you are picking up local AM or FM radio stations on the shortwave bands, it is likely that your receiver is overloaded. Inexpensive and portable receivers usually lack the filtering needed to eliminate this interference, but you can make your own filters. Filters can also be | purchased from shortwave dealers (see below for recommendations).

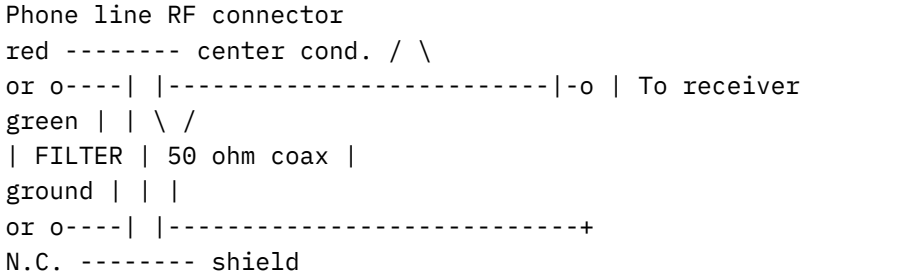
A high-pass filter can be used to remove signals below the shortwave bands. It rejects interference from local AM stations and presents a high impedance to the phone line at audio frequencies so that the phone line remains balanced.

A low-pass filter can be used to remove signals above the shortwave bands. It rejects interference from FM and TV stations, as well as VHF 2-way radio transmitters. If you use both filters, connect the output of the first filter to the input of the second (don't forget to connect their ground terminals together). It doesn't matter which filter is connected first.

These filters also work well with random wire antennas. Just connect the antenna in place of the phone line.

The filter(s) should be connected to the phone line in this manner:



| RECOMMENDED FILTERS
| If you don't want to make your own filters, the following have good | performance, are well-built and affordable:
| Model 400 BCB interference filter (3.5 MHz highpass)

| Model 420 HF lowpass filter (30 MHz lowpass)
| http://www.iceradioproducts.com/filtersrf.html#3
| (scroll down a bit to see the model 420)
| If you have a random-wire antenna, the following unit will provide | impedance matching and lightning protection (connect antenna to 450-ohm | terminal):
| Model 182A beverage matching unit

FILTER PLANS

The original credit for the high-pass and low-pass filters goes to Paul Blumstein and John Shalamskas, respectively. Edited versions of their articles are included here:

Date: 09 Jan 91 00:54:08 GMT
From: paulb@harley.TTI.COM (Paul Blumstein)
Subject: BC Band Hi-Pass Filter

The following ascii-schematic diagram is a high pass filter that will filter out Broadcast Band (MW) stations. I found it a great boon to my shortwave listening since local MW stations overload my ATS-803A front end & appear in SW, especially with a long antenna.

If you remember my antenna saga, I went from 50 feet to 150 feet & had overload problems causing me to cut back to 50 feet. (Even at 50 feet, I still have some MW interference). I took the advice of Gary Coffman and looked up filters in the ARRL Handbook. With the filter in place, I intend to try to increase my antenna length again.

Anywho, here is the filter, for interested parties.

--------||---+----||-----+----||-----------
} }
{ {
} }
-------------+-----------+-----------------

The outer capacitors are 1500 pf ceramic disks.
The inner capacitor is 820 pf ceramic disk.
The squiggly things are coils (two total). Each one is 2.7 uh.
(a close value will do).

From: bill@videovax.tv.tek.com (William K. McFadden)
Subject: Re: BC Band Hi-Pass Filter

I built the filter that Paul Blumstein posted recently and measured it on a gain-phase analyzer. Here are its characteristics:

100 kHz -120dB
500 kHz -68dB

1000 kHz -38dB
1600 kHz -15dB
2100 kHz -3dB

The source and load impedances were 50 ohms. Because the filter has five elements, the attenuation is 30dB per octave. The measurements confirmed this.

This filter seems to be a good compromise between interference attenuation and passband response. There is very little attenuation in the 120m band and above. It could use a little more attenuation at the upper end of MW, which could be done with more stages or a higher cutoff frequency. Alternatively, you could build two of these filters and put them in series. (Since two 1500pF capacitors in series are really 750pF, you could eliminate one cap.)

Just for fun, I put 470 ohms in series with the input to see how the filter performed with an antenna mismatch. The response was:

100 kHz -105dB
500 kHz -60dB
1000 kHz -35dB
1600 kHz -15dB
2300 kHz -3dB

These figures are normalized to the passband response of -15dB, which is due to the impedance mismatch between the source and load and would have been there without the filter. Hence, the filter works almost as well in spite of the mismatch, which is good news to those who use long-wire antennas.

From: johns@uhunix.uhcc.Hawaii.Edu (John Shalamskas)
Subject: Construction of filters for SW reception

Several people have asked for construction details of the filters I built for my DX-440.

The high-pass filter helped some, but in my location the VHF/UHF broadcasters are also causing problems. So, I dug out the ARRL handbook and chose a 7-element Chebyshev low-pass design that is -3 dB at 35 MHz, -20 dB at 43 MHz, and -50 dB at 64 MHz (all calculated; it works well in practice!)

LOW-PASS FILTER (Rejects FM, TV, etc.)

chassis ground

I had to do a little more improvising at this point. I used .33 uH instead of .36, and .66 uH instead of .42, but it works fine.

The 5-lug terminal strips were perfect for these circuits, since there are 4 lugs plus a grounded lug. All "ground" connections go to the lug that is mounted to the chassis, and the other 4 lugs are used for each of the connections on the signal line. One terminal strip is used per filter. Since both filters were necessary to clean up the hash, I am going to put them both into one box when I get the time.

The proper way to connect them is in series, i.e.

signal in ------- filter 1 -------- filter 2 -------- signal out

There is no difference between ends. They are "bilateral" which means you can't possibly hook them up backwards. (In the above schematics,

COIL WINDING

You can make the coils yourself using this formula:

L = 0.2 * B^2 * N^2 / (3B + 9A + 10C)

L is the inductance, in uH
A is the length of the coil, in inches
B is the mean diameter of the coil, in inches
C is the diameter of the wire, in inches
N is the number of turns

For small wire, you can assume C = 0.

PARTS SOURCE

Parts for the filters can be obtained from the following source:

Perhaps this is a strange question but how does one test the performance of a radio receiver? I can easily listen to AM B'cast and FM but since SW frequencies are more sensitive to times of the day, what is the standard? Let me preface this by saying I've not done any SWL activities in YEARS and just bought this receiver on a whim ($ burning hole in pocket etc etc etc) . Is WWV the best standard to use for SW frequencies? Help the new "kid" please! (We'll get into antennae later)!

Playing their interval signal at 1500, followed by announcements indicating that they'd not be back after this broadcast until the snow melts in mid April or so.

Lots of great Loon calls. I can tell you that the Loon call is a very freaky thing to hear out in the woods.

Speaking of drunks, did anyone else hear the gang on 3910 kHz last night. Music wars, sampled profanity, no call signs used, got so bad that by 0400UTC they could barely talk, let alone key the mic.

Heard it here too. I switched to AM mode. ID was fairly strong. I am not sure if the second word was radium or random. The "radio random"
- I have heard before.

Do what you want on cable or satellite. The PUBLIC AIRWAVES belong to everyone and it is ANTI-AMERICAN to allow them to be dominated by one point of view. To me, The Glenn Beck radio program is the equivalent of someone letting their Great Dane dog take a big shit in the middle of the sidewalk.

The Public Airwaves should serve everyone with accurate news, balanced opinion, and culturally significant entertainment. Not a lowest common denominator assault on the intellect of the People.

It's called ATS because it has an Automatic Tuning System. It'll hunt for stations and remember them (I think). Then you delete the ones you

Your idea of "fairness" and "justice" is to IMPOSE YOUR idea of "fairness" and "justice" by way of Liberal fascist government control instead of the populace choosing what they wish to watch or listen via the free and unfettered marketplace.

They tried your idea in the USSR while it still exists in that model Thanks :o) - It says that they 'quit' in around CY 2000 . . .

Talked about "a pause between the third and fourth in the case of five digits and between the second and third in the case of four digits."
-which-is-why- to me the pattern was a "Three to Five Korean Wordsin a mono-tone with a pause..."
4900 kHz is not listed here.
Just did a 'google' for : 4900 kHz Korean Numbers Stations
"V24" {South Korean} is the 1st listing

-rotfl- #2 is "Are There Korean Number Stations ?"

Hello,

Re the Sangean ATS-909X, that I guess will be available in a month or so:

Can't find anything on their site regarding if it is at all possible to update the internal memory, with, eibi e.g., twice a year when the schedules change.

Would one have to do it manually for each frequency, or is their, possibly, a way to download the new seasonal frequencies ?

Any general thoughts or opinions on the radio specs, even though not avail. yet ?

Thanks,
B.

What if over half the NCE stations are actually right-leaning religious stations?

All radio stations should educate as well as entertain. There needs to be some credible mass media for this country to survive. Once upon a time radio had that credibility, because it was held to high standards by the license renewal process. The people were well served or we entertain competing applications for the frequency. Ownership was limited to 12 stations per company, ensuring the public got a good spread of philosophy from broadcasters. Now radio sucks.

Glenn Beck, much like Rush Limbaugh, are complete morons. I listen to them at least 2-3 times a week. I enjoy their comedy and "toe the government line" and "support republicans" mentality, it is satire and comedy for me. I don't see any real dangers in their moronic displays ...

They appear as two raving lunatics, their faces painted, their chests exposed, drunk on corporate support/monies, and making a mint off of "root for the republican football team line" and having weak minded people believe the imbecilic display ...

Like it or not, the morons who believe them are in our society -- better to know the enemy than to be ignorant, to the point of danger, of ones enemies ...

Just appreciate them for the lame, "three-stooges type of comedy", and go on to support real logic, reason and sanity ...

THE C-SPAN MISSION

C-SPAN is a public service created by the American cable television industry:

To provide C-SPAN's audience access to the live gavel-to-gavel proceedings of the U.S. House of Representatives and the U.S. Senate, and to other forums where public policy is discussed, debated and decided--all without editing, commentary or analysis and with a balanced presentation of points of view;

To provide elected and appointed officials and others who would influence public policy a direct conduit to the audience without filtering or otherwise distorting their points of view;

To provide the audience, through the call-in program, direct access to elected officials, other decision makers and journalists on a frequent and open basis;

To employ production values that accurately convey the business of government rather than distract from it; and

To conduct all other aspects of its operations consistent with these principles.

You wanted the raw data, I gave it to you. Here's the single paragraph.

http://www.mercurynews.com/science/ci_16989501?nclick_check=1

Kiss your 100-watt lightbulb goodbye

By Tracy Seipel

Californians can start saying goodbye to traditional 100-watt incandescent light bulbs now that the state has become the first in the country to require a new standard for the screw-base bulbs.

Experts say the new rules, which took effect New Year's Day, will save residents money and energy. California is already the nation's leader in energy-efficiency standards.

As of Saturday, what used to be a 100-watt light bulb manufactured and sold in California will have to use 72 watts or less. The 72-watt replacement bulb, also called an energy-saving halogen light, will provide the same amount of light, called lumens, for lower energy cost.

I think all silk (and later Nylon) went to the war effort.

Nylon stockings were in very short supply, but were still available. IIRC, you had to have a ration coupon to get them.

It takes 21 pounds of corn to make a gallon of Ethanol, which needs imported oil to be grown and harvested. Imported oil is also needed to convert corn into Ethanol. I've linked a site which explains the numbers, but the end result is that Ethanol consumes more imported oil than it saves. Oh, and it also causes world starvation.

There's a reason that even Al Gore has turned against this:

Very venomous snakes are swimming in the streets of Queensland, Australia right now. More venomous than the cobra some of them.

"Military aircraft are flying supplies into the Australian city of Rockhampton, where rising flood waters have cut off all but one access route.

Waters have been gradually submerging parts of the city of 77,000.

More than 20 towns in Queensland have been cut off or flooded across an area larger than France and Germany, with more than 200,000 people affected.

Authorities have now confirmed three deaths caused by flood waters in the past few days.

Officials have said that the crisis could last another month.
Continue reading the main story
At the scene
image of Nick Bryant Nick Bryant BBC News, Rockhampton

From here the city of Rockhampton looks like a small island surrounded by an inland sea. The roads from the south are cut off, so too the roads from the west. The airport has been shut because its runway is simply inundated with water.

There is one way in, from the north, and that's where the Australian Defence Force is presently focusing its efforts. It has a Hercules helicopter loaded up with food and medical supplies for Rockhampton, which it is feared could be completely cut off later in the week.

We're still 36 hours away from the peak of the floodwaters but they have been closing in on the central business district faster than originally anticipated.

People are being ordered by police to leave their homes. They have been wading through these outlying suburbs, chest-deep at times, to tell people to leave. Many are reluctant to do so.

There have been reports of small-scale looting and many people are worried not just by the floodwaters but by the possibility their homes might be robbed by looters. That is why an evacuation centre which has room for 1,500 people had only 50 overnight.

"Given the scale and size of this disaster and the prospect that we'll see waters sitting for potentially a couple of weeks... we will continue to have major issues to deal with throughout January," said Queensland Premier Anna Bligh.

Rockhampton has already been badly hit, leading many of its inhabitants to flee.

The city's airport, a major regional hub, was closed to commercial traffic due to flooded runways, while many main roads and railways into the area have been cut off, and power supplies disrupted.

"Today we'll see resupply of Rockhampton by military aircraft taking supplies into Mackay and then road transporting them down to Rockhampton," the state's emergency coordinator, police Deputy Commissioner Ian Stewart, said on Monday.

"That will continue until such time as the road is cut."

The water level in the Fitzroy River is expected to reach nine metres (30 feet) on Monday and peak at 9.4 metres on Wednesday, threatening as many as 4,000 homes.
'Stocking up'

One Rockhampton resident told the BBC there had been panic-buying in the city.

"Lots of people have been stocking up on fuel. I also heard about one woman who brought 20 loaves of bread from a supermarket," said the resident, Petros Khalesirad.

Rockhampton Mayor Brad Carter has said about 40% of the city could be affected, and warned the floods had swept snakes downstream.

No they are not. They present their platform, the voters vote. From that point forward the representative does what the representative feels is right, polls be damned. We can't vote continuously on every issue through opinion polls and expect to govern. That is anarchy (the bad kind). We are not a school of fish.

When Ron Paul was leader of the "Tea Party Movement", it was real. Now palin has stuck her okie butt in the works, and all sorts of other republicans are attempting to usurp and divert the power of this movement ... I think many are still ignorant to this. I think many are still ignorant to how deep and how many public servants are involved in the corruption, crime and treason ... indeed, to a lot of public servants it just looks to them like they are "just trying to keep my job, pay rate and benefits", to American citizens, the only legal government of the USA, IT LOOKS LIKE TREASON, CRIME AND CORRUPTION.

Perhaps by next election, some real gains will have been made and a GREAT AWAKENING occurring ... we will keep an eye on things, I can assure you ... :-)

And, there is the problem of politics and government servants having been reduced to nothing more than a "football game", you pick your side, you root your team ... but the game doesn't change, the same goals and paths are followed by both teams ... the republicrats and democans ... the evil puppet masters behind the curtain is where the axe needs to fall ...

THIS:
"Rayon
Rayon was the first manufactured fiber developed, it made from wood or cotton pulp and was first known as artificial silk. The Swiss chemist, Georges Audemars invented the first crude artificial silk around 1855, by dipping a needle into liquid mulberry bark pulp and gummy rubber to make threads. The method was too slow to be practical.

In 1884, a French chemist, Hilaire de Charbonnet, Comte de Chardonnay, patented an artificial silk that was a cellulose-based fabric known as Chardonnay silk." Pretty but very flammable, it was removed from the market.

In 1894, British inventors, Charles Cross, Edward Bevan, and Clayton Beadle, patented a safe a practical method of making artificial silk that came to be known as viscose rayon. Avtex Fibers Incorporated first commercially produced artificial silk or rayon in 1910 in the United States. The term "rayon" was first used in 1924."

in my hair nothin' seems t' be straight out there no i shan't go with you i can't go with you on the brooklyn bridge

he was cockeyed an' stood on the edge there was a priest talkin' to him i was shiftin' myself around so i could see from all sides in an' out of stretched necks an' things cops held people back the lady in back of me burst into my groin
"sick sick some are so sick" like a circus trapeze act
"oh i hope he don't do it" he was on the other side of the railin' both eyes fiery wide wet with sweat
the mouth of a shark rolled up soiled sleeves his arms were thick an' tattooed an' he wore a silver watch i could tell at a glance he was uselessly lonely
i couldn't stay an' look at him
i couldn't stay an' look at him because i suddenly realized that deep in my heart
i really wanted
t' see him jump

(a mob. each member knowin' an' i was in it an' caught by the excitement of it)

an' i walked away
i wanted t' see him jump so bad that i had t' walk away an' hide uptown uptown orchard street through all those people on orchard street

"comere! comere!"
i don't need no clothes

i meet many friends

poor soul so dead?)

first of all two people get together an' they want their doors enlarged. second of all, more people see what's happenin' an'

come t' help with the door enlargement. the ones that arrive however have nothin' more than "let's get these doors enlarged" t' say t' the ones who were there in the first place. it follows then that the whole thing revolves around nothing but this door enlargement idea.
third of all, there's a group now existin' an' the only thing that keeps them friends is that they all want the doors enlarged. obviously, the doors're then enlarged fourth of all, after this enlargement the group has t' find something else t' keep them together or else the door enlargement will prove t' be embarrassing

on fourteenth street
i meet someone who i know in front wants t' put me uptight wants me t' be on his level in all honesty
he wants t' drag me down there i realize gravity is my only enemy loneliness has clutched hands an' squeezes you into wrongin' others everybody has t' do things keep themselves occupied the workin' ones have their minds on from that has the right t' condemn others as trivial whose fault

an' who really is t' blame

it is impossible that it's him

looks at me rubs her chin
an' by sign language asks how come i'm so unshaven

i reply pointin' t' my chin.
an' she believes me needs no other answer i strum the guitar
she dances laughs
her bandana flies
i too realize that she will die here
one the side of this sea her death is certain here my death is unknown an' i come t' think that i love her)

i talk t' people every day involved in some scene good an' evil are but words invented by those that are trapped in scenes on what grounds are the grounds for judgment an i think also that there is not one thing anyplace anywhere that makes any sense. there are only tears an' there is only sorrow

there are no problems

i have seen what i've loved slip away an' vanish. i still love what i've lost but t' run an' try t' catch it'd be very greedy for the rest of my life

i will never chase a livin' soul into the prison grasp of my own self-love

i can't believe that i have t' hate anybody an' when i do it will only be out of fear an' i'll know it

i know no answers an' no truth for absolutely no soul alive i will listen t' no one who tells me morals there are no morals an' i dream a lot

so go joshua go fit your battle
i have t' go t' the woods for a while i hope you understand but if you don't it doesn't matter
i will be with you nex' time around don't think about me i'll be ok

you're gonna do someone might even

i used t' hate him
so much that i could've killed him

You can call Steve Davis directly and ask him. He's a very nice guy. Personally, I like the copper oxide because it stabilizes the wire in the air quite nicely. I'd go for the bare, unless you live in Texas or Louisiana (or Arkansas apparently)

I have several chronic conditions and a recommendation from a doctor;
what's your excuse?

BTW: if I were to fall down I'd break something, I'm rather sure-footed. Do my own climbing on good days. Fuck off Roy.

I have whatever local channels Time-Warner chooses to provide me, some residual analog basic cable (ESPN, Comedy Central, Fox News) and Netflix. I don't think I've ever had the pleasure of slowly dying in front of the NatGeo channel. Anybody who claims that 300 channels on cable means we have choice has never watched cable. It's all stock footage and unscripted "reality" crap. There is no substance nor culture to it. It dilutes any value accidentally left in the mass media. It is electronic Thorazine.

Dave,

What I mean is real radio and easy to use , and the link that you did post here is about music. And has nothing to do with radio

Ya know... for the last couple of weeks, things have been really pleasant around here. Reid finally agreed to his promise of never posting again if he lost his case to me (yes, he lost). People are posting some stock and economic analyses for 2011 and next week I hope the participants in the 2011 Stock Picking Challenge will provide the logic behind their new stock picks.

So in view of all that's tranquil, why was this post necessary?

Mormons? Welfare? There's a lot of things screwy about the LDS, but they don't NEED government welfare. They have their OWN system of welfare within the church. They grow their own foods, etc. And their system actually makes SENSE, in that those that need the help get it, but must repay it in the form of doing work for the church (see above about growing their own food, etc.) It pays for itself, and provides positive reinforcement.

BTW.. it's only the "reorganized church" or whatever they're calling it these days that still practices polygamy. The main LDS church pushes strong central family values.

I am starting a new religion. It is formed on the theory of "Spontaneous Generation."

The synopsis of the new bible is that earth took one of her mud puddles, having various elements from the atomic table in it, struck it with lightening, she did then smite with a dose of heat and wala! out comes the first living cell ... no thinking mind involved, no plan, it just happened!

Our church will be called, "The Order of Spontaneous Generation." Look for one in a town near you, and soon!

I use chandelier wire from Home Depot (loose braided drawn copper, very cheap). When I lived in more hostile climes I used stainless steel 25g

You said you can have all the free speech you can afford; that's nuts. AM and FM radio are the soap box and the town square of today. The 14th Amendment of the Constitution guarantees equal access to that town square. The oligarchs must control all thought to prevail. You are helping them.

There is no scarcity of light. The radio spectrum is part of the commons, same as the air and the sidewalks downtown.

NPR FM doesn't have as good coverage as any AM clear channels.
Therefore the need for multiple broadcasts at the low end of FM.

And does anyone still have a processing machine for it?

They only stopped making Kodachrome. They have lots of other types of film that don't need the exhaustive developing process of Kodachrome. Those you can take to any 1 Hour Photo.

Last May, (devilfinder.com Vietnam Veterans Wall in Jackson,Mississippi 2010) I went looking for some film for my Kodak FX 600 camera.Walmart doesn't have it anymore.I stopped off at a Walgreens store, they don't have it.I went to a pharmacy store catty corner across from the Walgreens store, on Raymond Road.They had the film for my camera.I better jump back over there this week and buy a bunch more of them film cartridges before next Saturday.I hopes they still have some film.If not, maybe I better look up Kodak's toll free number and plug in my phone and ask them where can I buy the film in my area.I have a couple of cheapo digital cameras I bought within the last three years, I haven't learned how to use them yet.

You could "prototype" it in scrap wire, decide it works great and be done with it.

I have a 70 X 100 lot. I gotta go straight up. I do have a 50' random wire and an MLB I use for the SW2. My ham radios are verticals. I'm going to play with big horizontal loops next.

There is no shortage of right wing reactionary opinion on the radio.
There are entire states without progressive radio. How does this serve the people? Is everyone in Texas a Republican?

The public airwaves belong to all the people, not just Clear Channel and Citadel's friends.

I checked the Kodak website. They only make a limited number of types of film, today. Most of their signature lines are gone. Although Fuji still makes many -- pardon the expression -- 'equivalent' types of film.

But I've been having trouble finding processing for my own films for some time, now. It's one of several reason's I moved my photography business away from film.

Nah - Most of the time Natural Gas from US/Canada/Mexico is now being used not Gasoline.

-also- Since the U.S. itself Produces 12% of the World's Crude Oil {Domestic} from the US Territories.
I like to think that that Ethanol is being produced with
'Domestic' Crude Oil and NOT Imported Oil.
-result- All American Oil and Ethanol For America !

-also- The USA still Produces 40%~45% of It's own
'Domestic' Crude Oil with Imports making-up the rest.
I like to think that that Ethanol is being produced with
'Domestic' Crude Oil and NOT Imported Oil.
-result- All American Oil and Ethanol For America !

Let My Chant Be : DRILL HERE ! DRILL NOW ! :
YEAH - JUST DRILL BABY ! [US Crude Oil]

Let My Chant Be : GROW HERE ! GROW NOW ! :
YEAH - JUST GROW BABY ! [US Ethanol]

- I've linked a site which explains the numbers,

Big Oil Company 'Numbers' = Lies
-a-la- Al Gore the Carbon Credits Shill

- but the end result is that Ethanol consumes
- more imported oil than it saves.

Big Oil Company 'Claims' = Gross Distortion
-a-la- Al Gore the Higher Home Energy Taxes Shill

Nah - The One Gallon of Imported Oil used to Start-Up an Ethanol Processing Plant* is off-set by the Ethanol Used to Fuel and keep it going.

Let My Chant Be : ETHANOL A SUSTAINABLE NATURAL ALL AMERICAN RESOURCE.

* The Ethanol Fuel Output Ratio to Imported Oil is between 20~30 to 1.

Are you saying we have no rights except those in the Constitution?
That's not what the Constitution says.

Our form of government can't work without healthy public discussion of the issues of the day, free from the distortion of moneyed interests buying favor. That is why media monopolies offend people who care about our form of government. People should be exposed to opposing viewpoints, regardless of the bubble they are comfortable in. We are a society, not a collection of individuals. Ayn Rand is dead.

Aiming to raise a new wire antenna here the next couple of weeks, and I'd like to get some Flexweave for the run, probably 14 gauge will be adequate for my purpose. I'd like to get it coated with either PVC or the shrinktube material.

Does anyone have any experience with either of these coverings? Can anyone say whether the material retains its flexibility, or if the wire is stiffened by the covering? I'd surely like the flexibility to remain, if at all possible.

Thanks,
Bruce

Anything you put over the wire will affect it's flexibility. And, the larger the diameter the wire, the worse this effect will be pursuant to the tensile properties of the covering material, and the coefficient of friction at the interface with wires of the Flexweave. Shrink is also less flexible, in itself, and is quite snug when finished, so flexibility can be quite compromised.

This is why shrink is used as strain relief at connectors.

There are materials that may be applied in liquid form that dry to form a very nice seal of flexible material over the Flexweave, but these, too, will affect flexibility of the finished antenna wire. Though, generally, not as much as hot or cold shrink.

The question is whether or not these effects will be sufficient to make the wire difficult to handle.

Realistically...likely not. You won't be tying bow ties with it, and, in fact, the covering will add additional support and strain relief to the flexweave in heavy weather, but there will a reduction in overall flexibilty.

Where in the constitution is there something that says "equal press" or "equal speech" when you find that just post it here and I will agree with you. Until then, you are pissing up a rope.

You and I have "free speech" and if you want to use it on any media, all it takes is money. If you want free speech that costs zero then get soap box and stand in the town square. The Air waves don't belong to this Nation any more than Germany owns the airwaves, does the government also own all the limited light waves?

Can the Government force you to turn off your lights, or force you to share your light with someone that has no light?

Well, it's interesting you bring that up. The answer, is "yes."

Is it Constitutional, no. But they can do it.

Examples.

In Palm Beach, there are local ordinances with fines and other penalties attached requiring ocean front property owners to turn their lights off, and block indoor light from reaching outside the building, to prevent turtle hatchlings from being attracted to away from the sea to their deaths on land.

In the area where I live, ordinances, with fines and other penalties attached, mandate that lights falling outside the property line, security lights, coachlights, even your auto's headlights while the vehicle is on the property, must be turned off.

On the other hand, in the event of a power failure, a local community has an HOA that requires by covenant, with fines attached, that homeowners, renters, or guests who are generator equipped must share a minimum of 30% of their total continuous generating capacity with homeowners, renters or guests, who are not generator equipped, whether the owner of the generator can meet his/her own needs while sharing, or not.

Your point about the Constitutional guarantee of Free Speech, and the nature of Free Speech, is well made.

But, governments, local and otherwise, have few limits should they desire to escape them.

TalkingPointsMemo also found that Issaï¿½s Army record was ï¿½marred by a bad conduct rating, a demotion, and allegations that he had stolen a fellow soldierï¿½s car.ï¿½ But thatï¿½s not the last time Issa would be accused of a crime.

In 1972, Issa was convicted of ï¿½Possession of an Unregistered Handgun,ï¿½ the second time that year he was arrested on weapons charges. In 1982, he was a suspect in an arson fire at a Ohio manufacturing plant he owned. Just weeks prior to the fire, Issa had greatly beefed up his fire insurance protection on the plant.

In the political arena, Issaï¿½s record is rather dubious as well: He accused outed CIA covert operative Valerie Plame of perjury during the congressional hearings investigating the misuse of power by the Bush administration in the commutation of Scooter Libbyï¿½s sentence; his allegations were baseless. He disparaged the testimony of four women whose family members were killed in Iraq at a hearing investigating the malfeasance of U.S. contractor Blackwater. He called the September 11, 2001 terrorist attack on the World Trade Center in New York a plane crash to justify denying support to the heroes who rushed to Ground Zero and who are now suffering from serious health problems as a result.

Hopefully they aren't using the $5 million we just gave them...

Stion Corp. will receive a $5 million loan to expand its manufacturing capacity for high efficiency, thin-film solar modules at its San Jose factory. The total cost of the project is approximately $22.2 million, with the company providing the remainder of the financing not supplied by the Energy Commission's loan. By December 2011, the improvements are expected to increase the annual capacity of the photovoltaic panel manufacturing plant by 140 megawatts a year and to add or retain 73 full-time equivalent jobs.

Thank you Gentlemen - I don't live in a difficult climate (water scarcely freezes here, we never get snow and the highest annual wind gust is typically about 40 mph, not a big deal), but my main concern is that I'd like to avoid (as long as possible) wear on the copper conductor as a result of the thing being strung in some trees (I have literally no other place to put it). I thought the coating might help reduce abrasion. Maybe it's not a problem. For that matter, I might just as well use a 12/14-gauge braided zip cord or hookup wire.

A couple of problems here. Roy assumes we accept that NPR is some kind of liberal advocate, yet cannot, in over 3 years of asserting so, produce any example of this. To him (an obviously mentally challenged elderly shut-in) this is inherently so and we should accept it as a given.

Soldiers already serve their buddies and the mission; having to serve a fictitious cloud being too must get complicated.

Religion makes war possible. To stop one is to stop both.

The only radios I've ever used this feature on were VHF/UHF scanners.
There are so few HFBC stations nowadays I wouldn't even worry about it.

IIRC the PAR EF-SWL Antenna uses Flexweave as the Wire Antenna Element : Had one out for many years (7~10) and it works well; the the Flexweave wire has held-up a-ok.

-just-looked- Par Electronics EF-SWL Antenna {End-Fed Short-Wave Listener Antenna}
http://www.universal-radio.com/catalog/sw_ant/2205.html Uses 45 Feet of #14 Black Polyethylene Coated Flex-Weave Wire made-up of 168 Strands of #36
AWG Woven Copper.
http://www.grove-ent.com/ANT8.html

First had it as a simple Inverted "L" Antenna with a 15-Foot Up-Leg {Vertical} and a 30-Foot Out-Arm {Horizontal}.
Later changed it to a Off-Center-Fed* Dipole with a 17-Foot Short-Arm and a 28-Foot Long-Arm.

* The PAR EF-SWL's Matching Transformer
http://www.parelectronics.com/pdf/EF-SWL.pdf allows it to have the two Windings shorted together with a Common Ground for an Inverted "L" Antenna
-or- Separate for a 'Floating' Two Terminal Antenna Winding for a : Dipole; OCF-Dipole; Windom; Loop; etc.

-imho- the 'flex-weave' is good stuff - iane ~ RHF

If those are your criteria, then no political speech of any kind would be permitted.

Here's the razor: The Constitutional guarantee of free speech is specifically intended to protect speech which is not popular and/or is critical of the leaders or political entities in or out of power.

This speech is guaranteed protection precisely BECAUSE it's not popular, and/or critical of the political entities in or out of power.
Popular speech and/or supportive speech of those in power needs no protection. Because it's popular. Because it's supportive of Power. And the founding fathers, having escaped from a land where any speech on a whim could be made a criminal offense, specifically sought to protect the freedom by each citizen to speak his/her mind without fear of retribution in both public or private venues.

To silence speech, for any political reason, is contrary to this Constitutional guarantee.

Even if it's "promotion of lies, distortion, slander and political ignorance."

Really? The tractors that plow the corn fields run on natural gas?
The trucks that delivers the supplies to the farms, and carts the produce - ALL are operated using natural gas?

> from US/Canada/Mexico
> is now being used not Gasoline.

The last time I checked, Mexico and Canada were foreign nations, and thus their supply came under the heading of "imported". That's money flowing out of the US for no good reason whatsoever.

And in regards to the gas pulled from America - why is it a good idea to waste that gas on a scam? The point is to SAVE oil, to use LESS of it - NOT to piss it away.

Assuming that your facts are correct (which I don't) you're arguing that it's OK for Ethanol to use more energy than it saves. Why is that a good idea, exactly?

> -so- My All American Car/Truck runs-on Domestic Gas

The last time I checked, my GM counts as an American car. Oh, wait, do you love talking about things you don't know anything about, don't you?

> -but- Keeping Chanting the Evil catch-phase "Imported Oil" > and trying to Demonize Home Grown All American Ethanol.

Yeah, Ethanol is made is America - in the same sense that Bernie Madoff was born in Queens. Being local doesn't excuse the fact that it's a fraud.

Ehtanol is a failure in very level. It doesn't save oil or gas, domestic or imported. It doesn't cost the consumer less. It's not particularly good for engines.

It's good for the owners of a couple of mega farms that grown corn. It's bad for the rest of America. It's disastrous for the people of Mexico.

Seeing how even Al Gore doesn't make that claim, I'm not sure where you go to back up THAT figure.

It's a wonderful chant....as long as you remain willfully ignorant of the facts.

Ethanol consumes more energy than it saves. A LOT more.

If you want to get technical about it, RF doesn't like braided round conductors as much as it likes smooth conductors with lots of surface. I use #12 solid copper wire with green plastic insulation for my verticals.

Tell me, how, exactly, are we going to regulate a bird disease?

No, it's not. Necropsy of the birds revealed lightning and large hail injuries.

What likely happened, a flock of these birds, which will be of a single species, got caught in an updraft and got taken aloft, caught in a thunderhead, and were killed aloft in the storm.

There are other theories being considered that also have no suspicious flavor.

The FCC will need to regulate the lights on your property. And they will also need to regulate content of information transmitted so that it is all equal and NOT one sided.

Little knowledge is a dangerous thing. The RF only travels on the outside so as the strands weave toward the middle the RF has to find other outside strands, and over and over again. This causes more loss.

Did you just step off the friggin' boat?

There is no such guarantee in the Constitution. You have the right to an attorney. You have a right to criticise the government. You have a right to defend yourself. You have a right to refuse to board troops in your house. You have a right to "security" from "unreasonable" searches and seizures. You have a right to speedy trial or other due process whenever your property or your liberty may be in danger of being taken away.

Every one of these points has been refined and defined by the federal courts over the course of 200 years. They are all "alienated" up.

LMAO!!!

That isn't a town square and the 14 says equal under the law.... there is no power given to congress to make any law and therefore no 14th amendment applied to radio waves.

Light spectrum is scarce, if I use infrared on my property for one thing then it could easily interfere with security or infrared cameras and sensors elsewhere. lasers will transmit infrared for a long ways and some lasers can burn and do damage to eyes and other things like CCDs.

Are you saying the FCC has no power over an internet that runs totally on lights and fiber optics?

<QUOTE>
Ceiling lights in Minn. send coded Internet data
By CHRIS WILLIAMS, Associated Press Chris Williams, Associated Press 2 hrs 9 mins ago

ST. CLOUD, Minn. ï¿½ Flickering ceiling lights are usually a nuisance, but in city offices in St. Cloud, they will actually be a pathway to the Internet.

The lights will transmit data to specially equipped computers on desks below by flickering faster than the eye can see. Ultimately, the technique could ease wireless congestion by opening up new expressways for short-range communications.

The first few light fixtures built by LVX System, a local startup, will be installed Wednesday in six municipal buildings in this city of 66,000 in the snowy farm fields of central Minnesota.

The LVX system puts clusters of its light-emitting diodes, or LEDs, in a standard-sized light fixture. The LEDs transmit coded messages ï¿½ as a series of 1s and 0s in computer speak ï¿½ to special modems attached to computers.

A light on the modem talks back to the fixture overhead, where there is sensor to receive the return signal and transmit the data over the Internet. Those computers on the desks aren't connected to the Internet, except through these light signals, much as Wi-Fi allows people to connect wirelessly.

LVX takes its name from the Latin word for light, but the underlying concept is older than Rome; the ancient Greeks signaled each other over long distances using flashes of sunlight off mirrors and polished shields. The Navy uses a Morse-coded version with lamps.

The first generation of the LVX system will transmit data at speeds of about 3 megabits per second, roughly as fast as a residential DSL line.

Mohsen Kavehrad, a Penn State electrical engineering professor who has been working with optical network technology for about 10 years, said the approach could be a vital complement to the existing wireless system.

He said the radio spectrum usually used for short-range transmissions, such as Wi-Fi, is getting increasingly crowded, which can lead to slower connections.

"Light can be the way out of this mess," said Kavehrad, who is not involved in the LVX project.

But there are significant hurdles. For one, smart phones and computers already work on Wi-Fi networks that are much faster than the LVX system.

Technology analyst Craig Mathias of the Farpoint Group said the problems with wireless congestion will ease as Wi-Fi evolves, leaving LVX's light system to niche applications such as indoor advertising displays and energy management.

LVX Chief Executive Officer John Pederson said a second-generation system that will roll out in about a year will permit speeds on par with commercial Wi-Fi networks. It will also permit lights that can be programmed to change intensity and color.

For the city, the data networking capability is secondary. The main reason it paid a $10,000 installation fee for LVX is to save money on electricity down the line, thanks to the energy-efficient LEDs. Pederson said one of his LED fixtures uses about 36 watts of power to provide the same illumination that 100 watts provides with a standard fluorescent fixture.

Besides installation costs, customers such as St. Cloud will pay LVX a monthly fee that's less than their current lighting expenses. LVX plans to make money because the LED fixtures are more durable and efficient than standard lighting. At least initially, the data transmission system is essentially a bonus for customers.

Pederson said the next generation of the system should get even more efficient as fixtures become "smart" so the lights would dim when bright sunlight is coming through a window or when a conference room or hallway is empty.

Because the lights can also change color, Pederson said they could be combined with personal locators or tiny video cameras to help guide people through large buildings. The lights could show a trail of green lights to an emergency exit, for instance.

While Kavehrad and Mathias credited LVX for being the first company in the United States to bring the technology to market, Kavehrad said it trails researchers and consumer electronics companies in Japan and Korea in developing products for visible-light networks.

Pederson's previous company, 911 EP, built high-powered LED roof lights for squad cars and other emergency vehicles. He said he sold the company in 2002. He said the visible-light network grew out his interest in LEDs that goes to the mid-1990s.

The Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport, which pays for 24-hour lighting and replacing fluorescent bulbs on high ceilings, is considering an LVX system, said Jeffrey W. Hamiel, executive director of the Metropolitan Airports Commission.

The system might include mounting cameras on the light fixtures to bolster the airport security system, but the real attraction is the savings on electricity and maintenance.

"Anything we can do to save costs is worth consideration," he said.

Michael Williams, the city administrator in St. Cloud, said the city had been considering LVX for some time.

"It's pretty wild stuff," he said. "They have been talking about it with us for couple of years, and frankly it took a while for it to sink in."

By CHRIS WILLIAMS, Associated Press Chris Williams, Associated Press 2
hrs 9 mins ago

ST. CLOUD, Minn. ï¿½ Flickering ceiling lights are usually a nuisance, but in city offices in St. Cloud, they will actually be a pathway to the Internet.

The lights will transmit data to specially equipped computers on desks below by flickering faster than the eye can see. Ultimately, the technique could ease wireless congestion by opening up new expressways for short-range communications.

The first few light fixtures built by LVX System, a local startup, will be installed Wednesday in six municipal buildings in this city of 66,000 in the snowy farm fields of central Minnesota.

The LVX system puts clusters of its light-emitting diodes, or LEDs, in a standard-sized light fixture. The LEDs transmit coded messages ï¿½ as a series of 1s and 0s in computer speak ï¿½ to special modems attached to computers.

A light on the modem talks back to the fixture overhead, where there is sensor to receive the return signal and transmit the data over the Internet. Those computers on the desks aren't connected to the Internet, except through these light signals, much as Wi-Fi allows people to connect wirelessly.

LVX takes its name from the Latin word for light, but the underlying concept is older than Rome; the ancient Greeks signaled each other over long distances using flashes of sunlight off mirrors and polished shields. The Navy uses a Morse-coded version with lamps.

The first generation of the LVX system will transmit data at speeds of about 3 megabits per second, roughly as fast as a residential DSL line.

Mohsen Kavehrad, a Penn State electrical engineering professor who has been working with optical network technology for about 10 years, said the approach could be a vital complement to the existing wireless system.

He said the radio spectrum usually used for short-range transmissions, such as Wi-Fi, is getting increasingly crowded, which can lead to slower connections.

"Light can be the way out of this mess," said Kavehrad, who is not involved in the LVX project.

But there are significant hurdles. For one, smart phones and computers already work on Wi-Fi networks that are much faster than the LVX system.

Technology analyst Craig Mathias of the Farpoint Group said the problems with wireless congestion will ease as Wi-Fi evolves, leaving LVX's light system to niche applications such as indoor advertising displays and energy management.

LVX Chief Executive Officer John Pederson said a second-generation system that will roll out in about a year will permit speeds on par with commercial Wi-Fi networks. It will also permit lights that can be programmed to change intensity and color.

For the city, the data networking capability is secondary. The main reason it paid a $10,000 installation fee for LVX is to save money on electricity down the line, thanks to the energy-efficient LEDs. Pederson said one of his LED fixtures uses about 36 watts of power to provide the same illumination that 100 watts provides with a standard fluorescent fixture.

Besides installation costs, customers such as St. Cloud will pay LVX a monthly fee that's less than their current lighting expenses. LVX plans to make money because the LED fixtures are more durable and efficient than standard lighting. At least initially, the data transmission system is essentially a bonus for customers.

Pederson said the next generation of the system should get even more efficient as fixtures become "smart" so the lights would dim when bright sunlight is coming through a window or when a conference room or hallway is empty.

Because the lights can also change color, Pederson said they could be combined with personal locators or tiny video cameras to help guide people through large buildings. The lights could show a trail of green lights to an emergency exit, for instance.

While Kavehrad and Mathias credited LVX for being the first company in the United States to bring the technology to market, Kavehrad said it trails researchers and consumer electronics companies in Japan and Korea in developing products for visible-light networks.

Pederson's previous company, 911 EP, built high-powered LED roof lights for squad cars and other emergency vehicles. He said he sold the company in 2002. He said the visible-light network grew out his interest in LEDs that goes to the mid-1990s.

The Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport, which pays for 24-hour lighting and replacing fluorescent bulbs on high ceilings, is considering an LVX system, said Jeffrey W. Hamiel, executive director of the Metropolitan Airports Commission.

The system might include mounting cameras on the light fixtures to bolster the airport security system, but the real attraction is the savings on electricity and maintenance.

"Anything we can do to save costs is worth consideration," he said.

Michael Williams, the city administrator in St. Cloud, said the city had been considering LVX for some time.

Guess you missed the "faster than the eye can see" and "indoor" parts.

Citadel Broadcasting has shrunk your brain to the size of a walnut.

The only tyranny threatening the USA is the unregulated corporation nonster tyranny.

"The other part of the story is the development of corporations, which is an interesting story in itself. Adam Smith didn't say much about them, but he did criticize the early stages of them. Jefferson lived long enough to see the beginnings, and he was very strongly opposed to them. But the development of corporations really took place in the early twentieth century and very late in the nineteenth century. Originally, corporations existed as a public service. People would get together to build a bridge and they would be incorporated for that purpose by the state. They built the bridge and that's it. They were supposed to have a public interest function. Well into the 1870s, states were removing corporate charters. They were granted by the state. They didn't have any other authority. They were fictions. They were removing corporate charters because they weren't serving a public function. But then you get into the period of the trusts and various efforts to consolidate power that were beginning to be made in the late nineteenth century. It's interesting to look at the literature. The courts didn't really accept it. There were some hints about it. It wasn't until the early twentieth century that courts and lawyers designed a new socioeconomic system. It was never done by legislation. It was done mostly by courts and lawyers and the power they could exercise over individual states. New Jersey was the first state to offer corporations any right they wanted. Of course, all the capital in the country suddenly started to flow to New Jersey, for obvious reasons. Then the other states had to do the same thing just to defend themselves or be wiped out. It's kind of a small-scale globalization. Then the courts and the corporate lawyers came along and created a whole new body of doctrine which gave corporations authority and power that they never had before. If you look at the background of it, it's the same background that led to fascism and Bolshevism. A lot of it was supported by people called progressives, for these reasons: They said, individual rights are gone. We are in a period of corporatization of power, consolidation of power, centralization. That's supposed to be good if you're a progressive, like a Marxist-Leninist. Out of that same background came three major things:

fascism, Bolshevism, and corporate tyranny. They all grew out of the same more or less Hegelian roots. It's fairly recent. We think of corporations as immutable, but they were designed. It was a conscious design which worked as Adam Smith said: the principal architects of policy consolidate state power and use it for their interests. It was certainly not popular will. It's basically court decisions and lawyers' decisions, which created a form of private tyranny which is now more massive in many ways than even state tyranny was. These are major parts of modern twentieth century history. The classical liberals would be horrified. They didn't even imagine this. But the smaller things that they saw, they were already horrified about. This would have totally scandalized Adam Smith or Jefferson or anyone like that...."

The courts say broadcasters have the right to lie to you. That is something that screams for a common sense legislative remedy, as part of a bigger effort to make the radio airwaves more responsive to the needs of their listeners.

Good signature you have....

Maybe it will interfere by bleeding over into the neighbors network or lights at 3:00AM out back bothering someone, or maybe I'm communicating with evil right wing Republicans over light waves and saying things you don't like....

What if the lights start to pulse racist things about Obama and the FCC isn't there to decrypt it and can't fine me for NOT giving equal time to some Socialist that would be pretending he isn't a racist and has something of value to respond with?

There are PLENTY of States without Fascist Radio so will you need a Fascist, Progressive, Communist, Oligarchy..... point of view in every market or do you just need to force the Progressive views to be broadcast at the listeners expense? Since commercials are listener financed and so are the Radio stations and so is the content, where do you get the power to force listeners to pay for what "you" want them to hear?

Do we need a "Gay Black bald Progressive" Station since they have none in most markets?

You can't leave them out, that wouldn't be "equal"

Where is that "right to know when they're hearing lies"?

It must have been deleted from my copy of the constitution, please post it.

Why didn't Obama have a subtitles for all his speeches explaining that these were just politician's lies.

The above goes into a lot more detail, the whole page(s) should be read.

Preamble to the Declaration of Independence:
"When in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.
2.1 We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Your logic would imply an explosion in Africa, killing thousands, in a

I'd venture to suggest he intended to kill the snake. he deliberately picked up the plywood board and he deliberately "whomped" that snake.
Nothing accidental about that! He was careless in his failure to correctly identify the snake as harmless no doubt due to the fear factor but he still deliberately killed it. Murder in the second degree!

Most ATS (automatic tuning system) is limited to the FM bands.

You can do such uploads with other radios and their computer controllers such as ERGO software and such.

410. Need help with Hammarlund HQ110A

I recently purchased a Hammarlund HQ110A and I cannot get it to operate.
It powers up, the lights and meters seem to function properly, but I cannot get any reception - just white noise. I do not have external speakers, so I use headphones....I do not have a proper antenna, so I'm just using a length of wire....since this is all new to me, I'm not sure of how to set the various controls on the unit (pitch, sensitivity, AVC.
LIM, audio gain, freq, selectivity, multiplier).
Can anyone offer me some advice?
Also, how hard is it to find parts and to get repairs on these units?
Thanks.

From CTV 15 minutes ago:

The results of tests on dead birds that dropped out of the sky over a small town in Arkansas on New Year's Eve are out, but investigators say the mystery may never be completely solved.

George Badley, the state veterinarian with Arkansas' Livestock and Poultry Commission, says tests on a handful of the thousands of dead birds all showed internal injuries.

"The 17 birds we did a necropsy on had internal bleeding that looks like blunt force trauma -- like they ran into something, would be our best guess," Dr. George Badley told CTV's Canada AM Tuesday morning.

Tests have, so far, ruled out poison and lightning as the cause of the birds' mass death.

"They all had internal bleeding and no signs of disease, but our pathologist is continuing to make sure that they are no viruses, germs or poisons in the birds," Badley added.

Late Monday, the Chief of the Wildlife Management division at the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission which is heading up the probe, suggested fireworks may be to blame.

"They get some kind of loud noise that would spook them . . . and they don't generally fly at nighttime and they start crashing into each other," David Goad told CTV News Channel, explaining that locals describe the birds as flying low at the time.

Goad said the birds likely suffered severe trauma in those mid-air collisions, subsequently forming blood clots that helped kill them.

However, he said it was possible the birds were so scared by the fireworks that they just wore "their muscles out."

Between 11:30 p.m. and midnight on New Year's Eve, thousands of birds plummeted to the ground over an area about 1.5 kilometres long and 800 metres wide in Beebe, Ark.

When it was over, the community of about 5,000 people northeast of Little Rock were left to pick up the carcasses. Most were red-winged blackbirds, though grackles and starlings were also among the dead.

Just one day earlier, tens of thousands of dead and dying fish washed up along a 40-kilometre stretch of the Arkanasa River near the city of Ozark about 200 kilometres west of Beebe.

While the timing and proximity has fuelled a variety of conspiracy theories linking the events, Badley says officials don't believe the mass deaths are connected.

"Everyone here in Arkansas believes that these two events are completely unrelated," Badley told Canada AM.

Because only drum fish washed up along the Arkansas River, experts have suggested the die-off was likely due to disease, rather than contamination.

It could take up to one month for the results of tests on the dead fish.

Thanks Roy. I'd get the PAR, actually, except I am hoping for something just a bit longer (~30 up, 60 horz). I will put the match at the ground rod. Thinking of getting the Winradio matchbox, which also uses the binocular ferrites and a metal case for strapping to the ground rod.

I may end up getting the PAR and trying it as a sloper from near ground up to that 30 foot height...then running both of these through my MFJ noise canceller (which actually works, but really needs two pretty well-matched antennae). With my horrible RFI situation, I am beginning to run out of ideas, though - if all of this fails, I might try one of those expensive vertical magnetic loops on a rotator, but that will be a last straw.

Really? I had not heard that before, but rather the opposite. If that's the case, why does anybody use a braided wire?

I would love to try some big horizontal loops for 60-90 meters with some 4:1 matchers; but I cannot get them up very high, and two sides of them would be directly beneath noisy power lines :-(

Actually, it's a Constitutional guarantee. That's THE Law. The intent of which was underscored within text of the Federalist Papers.

The point being, that law may not be created that undermines the Constitutional guarantee of inalienable rights. It's a matter of definition.

The Constitution specifically establishes the limits of Federal powers to protect the citizens from abuses of these powers. Based on those inalienable rights guaranteed within it's text.

Read it. Read the Federalist Papers, while you're at it.

Submission to tyranny as inevitable is as much a crime as the tyranny, itself.

How much loss are we talking about? It cannot be much...at least not so's you'd notice.

I have plenty of sensitivity - my biggest problem by far is RFI from nearby sources, and it dwarfs any loss issues. Ideally, I would either put the antennae at an illegally high elevation above the power lines, or buy a new rural lot - neither of which is workable at this moment.

It is quite obvious, the forefathers wrote what the meant and meant what they wrote ... they then gave us the responsibility to protect what they gave us with our lives ...

"Obfuscateors", such as yourself, coming along hundreds of years later, claiming you have "the facts" simply are an amazing anomaly of morons wishing to rewrite American history, principals and standards. You are simple one in a line of many such morons ...

Dunce, you ABSOLUTELY have a right to YELL FIRE in a theater, if there REALLY IS A FIRE! Informing the public, telling the truth, attempting to save life, etc. is totally legal ... falsely calling fire is a crime!

I'm saying that "ALL" powers the government has come from the constitution and ALL laws come from the powers given in the constitution so the government has no power to create rights.... rights are created with the constitution not with extra constitutional laws derived from judges interpreting laws.

The only constitutional process, is to change the Constitution to add powers to the Federal government. Any power given to the Federal Government is a power/right taken from the people since "all" powers NOT given to the Federal government already belongs to the States or the People.

Is that why we weren't allowed to read the Health care laws and all 2000

What is wrong with people with money being interested.....

> That is why media monopolies offend people who care about

The reason media Monopolies are offensive is that they try to suppress their competition.... The Liberals had a monopoly on the media NETWORKS for decades. And they wrote laws to keep others from access to other media. The problem arises when we have corrupt politicians.

Business is supposed to try to grow and stay strong, government is NOT supposed to be connected to the business or money from private industry.

NO.... people should be able to seek or write and speak opposing view points with their own money.

We are "NOT all Married" to each other or to the government.

So "what yours is mine, and what's mine is mine" does NOT extend to society even though it is a tenet of Marriage.

Sensitivity all the way up, AM mode, limiter off, peak up the "antenna" control, audio gain for a comfortable level, tune around the 7-7.3 MHz band daytime or 3.5-4 MHz band at night -- there should be lots of signals. If not, try replacing the tubes one at a time. Jiggle the bandswitch -- its contacts (and some of the potentiometers) may be dirty with age and need to be spritzed with WD-40 or a cleaner. Beyond that, the set may have developed some bad capacitors or other components. The manual for the receiver is here:

It is actually easier to repair old vacuum tube electronics than it is to repair a modern IC based radio that is out of production by a few years. There's plenty of new old stock (NOS, "new" in the box yet 50 or 60 years old) tubes still out there. But tubes don't go bad just sitting there, so the tubes in your radio are probably OK. More than likely, the problem is in dirty switch contacts, or resistors or capacitors that have gone bad. One can find new stock replacements that might not look much like the old ones, but electrically are far better and more reliable.

You will need a voltmeter (preferably a vacuum tube voltmeter, but a modern digital multimeter will work, especially if it has a bar-display mode which will be useful for aligning the IF coils an transformers). A signal generator that can go up to at least 30 MHz is also a big plus, since it will help a great deal in aligning the set (more than likely, it has drifted out of alignment, re-aligning it will restore it to like-new selectivity and sensitivity).

It's best to get a service manual for the set, particularly if you haven't done this sort of thing before. Then you can just follow the troubleshooting and aligning instructions therein.

PS - Be aware that vacuum tubes require and use significantly higher voltages than semiconductors. You will have to take precautions to avoid getting zapped. You can't be casual around powered-on vacuum tube electronics like you can around low-voltage semiconductor circuits.

You have learned NOTHING from your Liberal Masters "Grasshopper" the children can NOT be stopped from having sex, and broadcasters can NOT be stopped from lying. You give the children condoms in school rather than trying to pass Legislation to stop them from having sex.

You need to give the children of the radio-waves their condoms because they will have sex no matter what you do.

Be not afraid of growing slowly, be afraid only of standing still.

Grasshopper, it will be time for you leave us when you can snatch these concepts from the cosmos....

ALL of governments powers come from the people, who grant them the authority in order to fulfill the peoples wishes. The Constitution is the document which allows this to occur.

If either the peoples granting of power or the Constitution is missing, the government IMMEDIATELY becomes an illegal government ... at this point the solution is simply, remove the criminally-treasonous-public-servants from the offices they are illegally occupying and restore the people right of self-governance.

The Constitution allows the government to exist. A better way to make your point is to say the Constitution acknowledges that government powers come from the people, and that the Constitution protects the rights of the people from usurpation of this power.

Hammarlund's typically have more sensitivity than may actually be used. Turning RF Gain all the way up, and turning off the limiter will drive the front end into blocking.

Turn the limiter off, yes, but increase sensitivity until you encounter artifacts, or distortion or quiet resulting from severe clipping.

WD-40 is not really recommended for pots and switches. Caig products for cleaning pots and switches are a better choice.

Replacing caps on a Hammar is quite easy. Alignment can, depending on model, be done using nothing more than non conductive tools and WWV.

Congratulations. A nice rig.

The Constitution is a rule of law. That law limits the power of Government, and specifically guarantees the rights of the people.

The interpretation of it related

Interpretation allows its intent to be ignored. The Constitution is what it says it is. Interpretation is an attempt to circumvent its provisions.

Limbaugh's audience gets smaller and more homogenized as he gets fatter and more blatantly racist. I'm sure his minions are largely cowards individually.

Limbaugh cares about one thing: Limbaugh's braggin' rights bank account. People who compare balance sheets to determine value as a person are dead inside. The are soul less. Limbaugh has no soul. Look in his eyes. Nuttin honey.

Hitler had power, Limbaugh has no power.

Apples and Oranges.

If you want to look at two in the same seat look at Hitler and Obama.

Obama loves and believes in Redistribution, Hitler loved and believed in redistribution.

Obama takes from Capitalists and gives to his Socialist pals, Hitler would take from the Jews and give to the Aryans who were his pals.

Obama wants to say who gets health care and who dies and Hitler liked saying who got health care and who he herded into gas chambers.

Obama and his ilk believe power comes from the barrel of a gun and Hitler believed that power came from the barrel of his guns.

You can yell "fire" when there is a fire... and if you cause death with a prank, it's not the free speech that is illegal it's the motive of the speech that was intended to hurt people that is illegal.

Guns are legal, you still can't kill people randomly.... so you can say what you want up until you use it to infringe on someone else's rights by causing their death.

You can't tell a blind person that there is no bus coming and kill them by lying and doing it to murder them....

But the words themselves are NOT and never will be illegal. Just your motive when you used them. Just like using your guns.

The thing is, both of you are correct:

C-Span is in fact broadcasting Chinese propaganda via CCT (god forbid that CCT ever aired anything about Chinese political prisoners or its secret police)

C-Span is NOT government funded but is paid for by the cable industry
- no taxpayer dollars there.

From the C-Span website:

"C-SPAN is a private, non-profit company, created in 1979 by the cable television industry as a public service. Our mission is to provide public access to the political process. C-SPAN receives no government funding; operations are funded by fees paid by cable and satellite affiliates who carry C-SPAN programming."

Meet the new BOSS

Same as the old BOSS

http://www.bloomberg.com/news/2011-01-05/house-republicans-to-weaken-anti-deficit-rules-to-ease-tax-cut-approvals.html

House Republicans, in one of their first acts in the majority, plan to vote today to weaken the chamberï¿½s anti-deficit budgeting rules to make it easier to approve tax cuts even if they add to the governmentï¿½s financial shortfall.

The revised rules would exempt most tax-cut proposals the Republicans intend to push from being financed with offsetting savings elsewhere in the governmentï¿½s budget.

- - - -imho- the 'flex-weave' is good stuff - iane ~ RHF
- - - http://www.davisrf.com/flexweave.php

- - If you want to get technical about it,
- - RF doesn't like braided round conductors
- - as much as it likes smooth conductors
- - with lots of surface.
- - I use #12 solid copper wire with green plastic
- - insulation for my verticals.

- Really?
- I had not heard that before, but rather the opposite.
- If that's the case, why does anybody use a braided wire?

Dave & BpnJ,

It has always been my humble understanding :
That a Multi-Stranded Copper Wire where each of the Strands has a very thin clear coating where each of the individual Wires is separated from the others is better than a single (1) Wire of the same relative Size {DC Current Rating}.

"The Trick" is to get all those separate and individual Stranded Wires in the Bundle to be 'connected*'
"Together" at the Fed-Point of the Antenna. {Joints}

* Usually this is done by Soldering the Wires all 'together' as one; with the Flow of Solder forming an Electrical Bond between the Wires.
Soldering remotes the very thin clear coating and allows for an optimum joining of the Wires as one.

Note : Crimping the Wires and other mechanical means of fastening the Wires will always be something less than the Maximum 100% Standard that Soldering the Wires can achieve. -if-all-are-done-right-

For the same relative Physical Size Wire with the same DC Current Handling Capabilities a group of Stranded Wires will have more 'collective' Surface Area for RF {Surface} Current than a Single Wire.
-roughly-

* 1 Single Wire to 7 Multi-Stranded Wires ~ 2X :
The Same DC Rating -but- Twice the RF Rating
* * Six Wires around a Center Wire

* 1 Single Wire to 19 Multi-Stranded Wires ~ 4X :
The Same DC Rating -but- Four-Times the RF Rating
* * Twelve Wires around Six Wires around a Center Wire

IMHO - For most average 'typical' 30 Feet to 120 Feet
Shortwave Radio Listener [SWL] Antennas an Insulated Multi-Stranded Cooper Wire makes for a Good Durable Long Lasting Wire Antenna Element.
http://www.davisrf.com/antenna-wire/flexweave.php
http://www.universal-radio.com/catalog/cable/4608.html
http://www.smeter.net/daily-facts/5/fact24.php

-however- for Non-Typical SWL Antennas from 150 Feet and up Copper-Clad-Steel (CCS) Wire may be the better option for Extra Strength and Durability in a Long-Larger SWL Antenna.

I was interested in constructing a PWA antenna as described here:
http://www.radiobanter.com/showthread.php?t=80060

I noticed that the website hosting the main instructions is now out of service, and I was wonder if anyone could describe to me how to build such an antenna.

Thanks!

Only in R.H. Fink's diseased mind was I attacking the entire Mormon organization. Welfare fraud IS rampant in the polygamist subdivisions. Interpretation presupposes that an intent other than the text of the document is required.

By definition, an interpretation is an inaccurate understanding, and allows the intent of the text to be ignored.

The various spec lists say"

...*ATS (Car Tuning System) auto scan and preset in priority of signal strength in FM / MW / LW bands
*FM RDS / RBDS function with PS, PTY, RT and CT
*DSP IF decoder
*Automatically searches for strongest signal station within SW station pages....

Urh that's it for scanning frequencies.
No upload. A reference to an EEPROM is for saving memories when unplugged, changing batteries etc.

Interesting is the Radio Shack price of USD$449 and others around USD
$225, 250

I live cheek-to-jowl in a tight suburban neighborhood. I have the two power lines front and back; PCs and fancy TVs in all neighbor's houses; crackling streetlights; buzzing halogen porchlights; and etc. An industrial park begins about 300 feet away across an active RR track. I have three blowtorch AM transmitters located within a few miles of here on the same saltwater bay plain where I am. I could spend days tracking down the problems (and once or twice have done so), only to find that some cannot be readily eliminated.

I have "heard" some tiny flea power stations and have logs and even QSLs to prove it - but by and large, the noise level is onerous and on the lower bands loud enough to obscure all but the loudest stations.

I know dang well that if I can get the radio and antenna away from this crapola - the beach 50 miles away, for example, or out to one of my astronomy sites - the problems largely disappear. This neighborhood is a disaster.

The best thing I can do is get that wire up as high as legally possible, and then if necessary turn on the attenuators.

How did we forget Bismark? If it wasn't for him, Germany couldn't become the first country with universal health system. And Schicklegruber just came at the right place and at the right time. BTW, very few of his 'pals' were officially determined to qualify as 'Aryans'...How about Erhard Mich ? Even Manstein's original name was von Lewinski ...

- Thanks for this.
- Do Flexweave and the product sold by Universal
- have this thin clear coating?

BpnJ,

I have never used the Antenna 'Rope' Wire from Universal-Radio; and it appears to be 'un-coated'.
-follow-up-check- Actually this is also Flex-Weave Antenna Wire FW14B-100 [14 Gauge @ 100 Foot]
http://www.universal-radio.com/catalog/cable/4608.html
-note- FW14'B' is #14 "Bare" Flex-Weave Copper Wire

From what I have read the Flex-Weave FW14CR is Clear PVC with a High UV Resistant Cover.
http://www.davisrf.com/antenna-wire/flexweave.php

While the FW14P Flex-Weave is Black Polyethylene [PE] and is more durable in Salt-Air and Trees.
http://www.radio-ware.com/products/fw.htm

IF you are talking about the very thin clear coating {oxidation} on each of the Wires : Then FW14'T' #14
"Tinned" Flex-Weave has No Outer-Cover {Insulation]; and is easier to Solder plus offers 'extra oxidation resistance'.

Basically : Drawn 'Bare' {Pure} Copper Wire has "NO" Coating but begins to 'Oxidize' in normal air and forms a 'microscopic' {very thin} nearly 'clear' coating -or-the newly drawn Wire is Coated with a very thin clear coating to prevent/reduce 'Oxidize' -or- the newly drawn Wire is "Tinned' to prevent/reduce 'Oxidize'.

-beyond-this-call- Davis RF Co. @ (800) 328-4773

WHY a Clear Coating : In general the People Buying Copper Wire like to see the Color of "Copper" : So they know that it is Pure 100% Copper Wire.
-it's-the-'sizzle'-!-in-the-sale-

Where-as Bare Copper "Magnet" Wire is usually coated with an clear Enamel with a Color 'Tint' to clearly show that it has been Coated to use in close-lay Windings.

-Often.
- Even Mathews reported that it wasn't true.

DPM,

Actually I never took it as something GWB said.

The import {meaning} that got from the 'claimed' statement by GWB :
"George W. Bush so famously put it, the Constitution is...nothing more than a piece of paper."
=WAS= 1 - GWB Was To 'Dumb' To Read It.

2 - GWB Was To 'Stupid' To Understand It.
3 - To GWB Any 'Paper' With Writing On It -was- "nothing more than a piece of paper" based on # 1 & # 2.

The 'Claim' Was To Add Insult To GWB [The Man] and To Injury GWB [The President] : In An Effort To Diminish GWB 'The Man' and Destroy GWB 'The President'.

Now Apply The Same To Prez Obama :
To Add Insult To BHO [The Man] and To Injury BHO
[The President] : In An Effort To Diminish BHO 'The Man' and Destroy BHO 'The President'.

That is total bullshit. They are real diamonds. They are identical to natural occurring diamonds. Indeed, no jeweler can tell them apart, from "flawless" natural diamonds. Under an electron microscope they are IDENTICAL ... however, the manmade diamonds are "too perfect."

With absolutely NO defects/impurities/flaws, it is a dead giveaway they were made in a lab. It is possible to create the flaws and make the manmade diamonds indistinguishable, even under the electron microscope ... however, this would cause a never ending series of lawsuits and injunctions which would last decades or longer, as de beers protects its' profits ...

The original article I posted, http://www.wired.com/wired/archive/11.09/diamond.html , actually makes note of this, just in a "very gentle way." Again, de beers is shaking in its' boots. But, those on the inside would NOT invest in diamonds ... platinum, gold, silver, etc. are the only way to go ... as worthwhile investments go.

JS

Garret 1415,

Sorry that the "Geo Cities . Com" website is gone and the Link/URL is no longer any good.

Presently the INFO on the Portable Wire Antenna [PWA] can be found at "Reo Cities .Com"

Portable Wire Antenna [PWA] -by- Tom Sevart [N2UHC]
http://www.reocities.com/n2uhc/portablewire.html

The full description of the Portable Wire Antenna [PWA] is there.

However the Image/Drawing/Photo of the Portable
Wire Antenna [PWA] does not come-up for me.

Besides Wire for the Antenna Wire Element : You will need a Plastic Tube to wrap some of the Wire around. I found that one of the larger Pet Store chains " PetCo, PetsMart, PetClub, PetLand, etc...
Has clear Plastic Tubing in the Fish/Aquarium section.
1st find something round like a pencil, pen that is as large around or slightly larger than the thickest part of your Radio's Whip Antenna to use as a Sizing Gauge to select your Plastic Tubing.
2nd go to the Store and select your Tubing.
3rd follow the instructions/directions/guidance at :

Portable Wire Antenna [PWA] -by- Tom Sevart [N2UHC]
http://www.reocities.com/n2uhc/portablewire.html

-more- Tom Sevart [N2UHC] -Web-Pages-http://www.reocities.com/n2uhc/index.html
-source- Reo Cities .Com

IF You are just using a short/small 15~25 Foot Portable Wire Antenna [PWA] Indoors {In-the-Room} with a 'portable' AM/FM Shortwave Radio running on batteries : Then a 'Ground' should not be needed.

However -if- You are using a longer/bigger 30~45 Foot Portable Wire Antenna [PWA] Outdoors {Out-Side} with a 'portable' AM/FM Shortwave Radio using an AC-to-DC Adapter : Then a 'Ground' Wire should be used with the PWA Antenna and Radio for Safety.

hope this helps - iane ~ RHF

Hi John,
Happy New Year to you and your family in South Africa. Just wondering how the MW DXing is going? The "ultra-cold" weather here recently in South Florida has caused an uptick in MW stations, mostly the entire East Coast, still haven't snagged a Canadian station(Cuban stations blast them out).
Are you and your friends going on another "DXepedition" soon? I always enjoy reading your exploits and the super DX that you catch!
Take care and have a healthy year,
Bob

Looks like Fatty Arbuckle in some of the Our Gang/Little Rascals old movies on TCM.

I bet y'all never heard of him before.I remember back in the 1940's when I lived in Carthage,Missy Sippi, some people were talking about Fatty Arbuckle.

One time about eleven years ago, I asked that married Irish woman wayyyyyyy over yonder across the big pond if she has ever heard of Fatty Arbuckle.She said, Of course I have!

It is all about LPFM, but the on-topic part for SW is that the law "prohibit[s] any applicant from obtaining a low-power FM license if the applicant has engaged in any manner in the unlicensed operation of any station in violation of section 301 of the Communications Act of Judges interpreting laws and case law has been a new development of the last 100 years.

Coincidentally the Progressives have been active in colleges and politics in America the last 100 years.

And how about those Progressives that gave us the progressive income tax and the IRS and the Federal Reserve. Then they gave us Prohibition.

One of the singular most insidious power grabs in the history of the Union. Acting on a significantly broad gloss on the terms of the Constitution, it is the first example of the Justices legislating from the bench.

Marbury v Madison created what Jefferson, himself, called 'the despotism of an oligarchy.'

Marbury v Madison was an example of interpretation diverting from both the text and the spirit of law to empower the court to act beyond jurisdiction.

Thank you for the example.

Hi Bob - all the best to you and yours for 2011. Aah, indeed good health is indeed the great wish at our age.
DX is never really good in my home QTH of Montagu. Did take my Grundig G8 to Atlanta in December but could kick myself as I scrambled the tuning steps and couldn;t get it to scan in 10 khz steps, so didn't do any useful DX..
We flew via Frankfurt in Lufthansa and got caught with a delay in the a/c due to snow and ice of four hours. Got let off lightly as others were delayed and flights canceled up to four days..

Hang in there Bob, you never know when your number will come up for Canadah.

I was amazed the other day to get Ireland on 6225 khz at 2000z. I didn't know Ireland had a SW service, so looked it up in WRTH and blow me down it was a relay from Meyerton.

Our next big DXpedition is to Seefontein on March 21st - am looking forward to some great DX and just hope the cattle don't screw up the beverages like last time.

Wrong!

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Marbury_v._Madison

Don't confuse the Progressive Movement with today's liberals; two different animals sharing the same root word.

What happened in 1710 of such legal import that you keep referring to it?

When discussing "original intent" please remember the Founders were middle class farmers who tended toward liberal democracy. The Federalists were the liberals. The antifederalists were the conservatives. None of the founders was rich by today's standards.

Therefore when an elite Supreme Court justice like Nino Scalia, who routinely hangs out with powerful captains of industry, attempts to divine "original intent" I want to puke.

Housing is a basic human right. I don't see a National Home Building Corps, so I'd have to assume you are trying to devalue my idea by taking it to an absurd conclusion then mocking that as if the absurd conclusion was inherent in my idea.

The fiduciary duty of a publicly held corporation is at odds with the goal of providing the best care possible for the most people. That is an incontrovertible fact. What say you, Roy?

No I didn't. The subject was Fatty Arbuckle, whose career was ended by a dead girl found in his bed.

That, and $3, will get you a cup of coffee and little more. The Declaration of Independence was a one-sheeter published to make sure everybody in the colonies-trying-to-become-states was on the same page as the conspirators in Phila. It was also a very ballsy self-inflicted death warrant/gross insult of an (like all British) immature and sadistic monarch. It was 14 months too late to be a declaration of war. It's more like an optimistic forward looking declaration of victory.

A lot of the flowery stuff of which you seem so enamored, was largely lifted from earlier works by Jefferson and others. It was a quickie. It has no force of law. It has no current relevance.

Because religious people think they are better than everyone else; that they have an inside track to a power structure; that their religion gives them authority to destroy plants and animals and waterways and tear down mountains. Aside from being ten years later than the original post indicated, there was lots of collateral damage from our little adventure.

The whole line of thinking is absurd. I said religion makes war possible, not inevitable. And not having an official religious community doesn't mean the people aren't religious.

Ham radio and SWL is stuck ,

New HF long range is a narrow band digital mode , you make at home ,

its digital , sycronous , PhaseModulation .

First step is a crystal oven , to make your clock MUCH more accurate , to sync on recvd RF , mcu and DSP correct noise and phase errors ,

Todays radios dont sync , so they waste more BW , and this means they must tolerate more NOISE on the signal ..

No complicated IF , demodulator , digital signal is demodulated as a WiFi do , a high speed phase detector , yours will cost pennies , cause its 16 mhz ! instead of 2.45 GHZ ..

Start with a simple High Q front end , locked to your accurate crystal oven , any phase difference will be detected at the RF signal , not a lower IF strip amplifier ..

Data is digital , highly compressed , RLL , and encoded on a narrow HF channel ,

Its simpler than any radio ever built , cause it has a DSP and MCU to reconstruct the noisy signal ,

no clarifier needed ,

Its simple , so every working man hates it !

It takes away JOBs ..

... questions ? Need a 2 GHZ MCU ? NO , slow MCU merely loads up MEM of the DAC converter , then high speed DAC creates waveforms into hi Q tank aka VCO ..

its DIRT cheap , easy to figure ,

But no one will suspect theres anyone out there , signal will sound like noise ...

And when they are, I'm right to do so.

You don't get to dismiss my points based solely on the fact that I disagree with said decisions.

That's also quite telling.

The truth is, that you've yet to make a point based in anything other than your disagreement with my points. Your claim that you have support of law is, in fact, the point dissent. You've offered nothing more than that you agree with your position.

It's been implied that he collaborated with the enemy, after--in his

IF that's true. And that's a big IF.

In the summer of 1969 nobody was bluffing . And an all out nuclear war was expected . And it was NOT just a TEST of the civil defense system . And I'm not making this up .

Ya know... I can recall when the only posts in MIS were to help one another with investing. In the early 1990s our pension fund was heavily invested in DRIP accounts as a way around commissions which were then around $25 per trade. As a result of all the DRIP investing we had done, we had a plethora of stock certificates for one share.

I thought one way of getting around it and making some money for the pension fund was to offer the single share certificates on MIS with a $15 markup over the last trade price. It was very successful and some people who posted here highly recommended the service I had provided. Then our lawyer stepped in and said the SEC could claim we are operating an unlicensed brokerage. So that ended that.

I only bring this up because, BR (before Reid) people tried to help out one another and things were very pleasant i this newsgroup. Since Reid has not been discharged, things were back to where they were in the early 1990s until suddenly the verbal toilet started to overflow again.

Grounding the Radio & Antenna when using the Portable Wire Antenna [PWA] using an Wire Antenna Element that is Outdoors {Out-Side the House}.

Portable Wire Antenna [PWA] -diagram-

X = Bottom Wire End {Grounding-Point} ////////// = Antenna Coil-Tube {Slides Ove Whip} ---- = Wire Antenna Element {30~45 Feet Long} 8 = Top Far-End Weight/Insulator {Rigging Point}

1st - Listen to the Radio without a Ground Connection.
{This is Your Base-Line Reference.}
2nd - Attach a Ground to the Bottom Wire End of the Portable Wire Antenna [PWA].
3rd - Attach a Ground to the Radio; either the Negative Battery Terminal; or the Outer-Ring of the Earphone Jack.
4th - Attach a Ground to both the Radio and Portable Wire Antenna [PWA]. {a Common Ground for both}
-result- Use the Ground Connection that produces the best {more} Radio Signal with the least {less} Radio Noise.

- - Wasn't McCain a POW ?
- - How does that make him a traitor ??

To Many/Most Liberals a/o Democrats :
John Kerry is a Hero for his Vietnam Anti-War Activities
-while- John McCain Will Never Be A Hero
For Being A Vietnam Warrior and POW
-cause- John McCain is NOT a Liberal a/o Democrat.

- He sang like a soprano.

Sorry, did not open the message. Got the QTH now.

It could be a transmission by WBNY. There was a broadcast last night on 6900kHz and when that frequency is active usually a frequency around 4MHz is active too. Check ACE loggings at:

- That, and $3, will get you a cup of coffee and little more. The
- Declaration of Independence was a one-sheeter published to make sure
- everybody in the colonies-trying-to-become-states was on the same page
- as the conspirators in Phila. It was also a very ballsy self-inflicted
- death warrant/gross insult of an (like all British) immature and
- sadistic monarch. It was 14 months too late to be a declaration of war.
- It's more like an optimistic forward looking declaration of victory.
- A lot of the flowery stuff of which you seem so enamored, was largely
- lifted from earlier works by Jefferson and others. It was a quickie.
It
- has no force of law. It has no current relevance.

So it was your Liberals who made institutional slavery a constitutional right?

I wondered when Liberals would fess up and admit that they like slavery.
It's already obvious to me that Liberals are all for slavery because they want the the entire unwashed masses to be slaves to the elite and superior intellect of the ruling elite Liberals.

Welfare/Redistribution is all about forcing reliance on the government just as black slaves had to rely on their Masters good will and legal standing in the community.

Heavily into utes these days. Mostly static (QRN, QRM). There are JT-65 HF beacons way under a Watt that make challenging targets. I also still enjoy MWDX. (Thanks again to the mostly evil Citadel for keeping their IBOC off at night). I'm still playing with my elevated radials on my 43' vertical. Antennas are an endless source of delight.

Confession: I don't have the general coverage front end filter set for my K3. The trusty old ICOM is GC. My main MWDX machine remains the Drake SW2.

Subject -was- Persons-of-Faith A Threat To The US?
See 'Special-Dave'
. . . or more importantly you don't see . . .

You are Blinded by your Biases against Religion; and some might call it Hatred for Persons-of-Faith.

'Special-Dave' : It Ain't Religion
-but- Religion Is Often An Excuse.

'Special-Dave' : It's the "Ism"s !

Yeah "Theism" {Religion} is one of the "Ism"s

But 'Special-Dave' so is...
Monarchism {Kings & Czars etc} {The Great Leader}
Democratism {Great Leaders of The-People}
Republicanism {Great Leaders of The-People} Socialism {Great Leaders and The Party}
Fascism {Great Leader of The-Party}
Communism {Great Leader of The-Party}
Theism* {Great Leader of The-Church}

* NOTE : The Only 'Theist' States today are all Islamic.
* Except for the Vatican {Catholic Church} and just how many Military Divisions does the Pope have . . .

THE PROBLEM WITH "ISM"S :
At the Core {Backbone} of All These "Ism"s
Is 'The Organization' of the "Ism" and the Head of 'The Organization' : The {Great} Leader !

=ABOUT= 'The Great Leader' -types- {Elitism}
1 - A Champion of 'The-Cause {Devoted To 'The-Cause'} and Their Personal LEADERSHIP {ME-ism} of 'The-Cause'.
2 - Their LEADERSHIP {ME-ism} of a cause.

=WRT= Leaders and Leadership
-it's-simply-about- Elitist and Elitism

Propagation Forecast Bulletin 1 ARLP001
From Tad Cook, K7RA
Seattle, WA January 7, 2011
To all radio amateurs

SB PROP ARL ARLP001
ARLP001 Propagation de K7RA

Average daily sunspot numbers were up nearly 24 points this week to 50, and average daily solar flux rose over 9 points to 89.5. The lagging 3-month average of daily sunspot numbers was down 3.5 points from last month's average of the previous three months. The three month moving average of daily sunspot numbers, ending on June through December was 16.2, 20.4, 23.2, 28.9, 33, 35.6 and 32.1.

The latest forecast from NOAA/USAF for the near term has a solar flux of 88 on January 7, 86 on January 8-9, 84 on January 10, 82 on January 11, 80 on January 12-15 and 78 on January 16-18, 80 again on January 19-25, 88 on January 26-30, and 90 on January 31 through February 2. Planetary A index is predicted at 7 on January 7, 10 on January 8-10, 8 on January 11 and 5 on January 12-19.

The geomagnetic prediction from Geophysical Institute Prague is quiet to unsettled January 7, unsettled January 8-9, quiet to unsettled January 10, and quiet January 11-13.

Yekta Gursel, KJ6DRO alerted us to an article in the February 2011 issue of "Sky and Telescope" titled "The Perfect Solar Superstorm." You can read most of it online by going to http://www.nxtbook.com/nxtbooks/newtrack/st_201102/#/28 and clicking on "Preview" if you are not a subscriber. Your local library may also provide online access to the magazine. The article begins on page 28.

David Moore, who is not a radio amateur but has a keen interest in all things solar, sent a link to a National Science Foundation article on why the corona of the Sun is millions of degrees hotter than the surface. You can read it at http://www.nsf.gov/news/news_summ.jsp?cntn_id=118338.

Ken Lappe, W1YO of Leesburg, Florida is puzzled by the lack of HF DX during this time when we have sunspot activity. He wrote, "The past few days Jan 3, 4 and 5, the sunspot number has been in the 50 range and the solar flux in the low 90s with very low A and K indices. All indications suggest at least fair conditions on the higher bands. But this is not the case. Yes we hear some sporadic-E at times and some trans-equatorial propagation at times on 12 and 10 meters. But otherwise the bands are dead, or so it seems. ZL4WW was weak here in central Florida on 12 meters yesterday around 1900z, but nothing else was heard. Even 17 meters has been quiet in the afternoon and nothing special in the mornings. So, the question is: If we have sunspots and solar flux and quiet As and Ks where is the DX?"

It may just be a combination of seasonal Winter conditions and sunspot activity not high enough to support much long distance propagation. A look at a propagation program, such as W6ELprop, is instructive.

Using a predicted smoothed sunspot number of 39 for January 5 (see http://www.swpc.noaa.gov/weekly then go to page 11 of the January 4 edition for the source) from Ken's Florida location to New Zealand, 12 meters looks marginal. 17 meters looks good over that path, but only from 0200-0500z.

Look a few months ahead to April, and with a smoothed sunspot number of 51, conditions look considerably better.

Now 12 meters opens 1930-0300z, and 17 meters is open during Ken's local evening until 0530z.

But perhaps Ken is accustomed to better HF openings at this time of year with this level of solar activity. In that case, I don't know.

Walt Knodle of Bend, Oregon wrote on January 2, "I had an interesting experience on 40 meters this morning, interesting because of the timing relative to reading an article by K9LA on skew paths in the January 2011 World Radio Online.

"That article was directed toward 160 meter propagation, but seemed appropriate for conditions on 40 meters today. While listening for VU2GSM I noticed his signal was stronger along the long path than the short path. However, the LP was almost entirely in daylight so something else was at play. In swinging the beam toward the LP I could hear Kanti's signal pass through a very definite peak between the SP and LP headings. The best heading was directly SW of my QTH and along the grey line. Assuming a refraction point near the equator, this would follow Carl's example from the WRO article and implicate the equatorial ionization anomaly. One side benefit of the skew path was that it placed the Chinese OTH radar at 90 degrees to my beam heading."

Sunspot numbers for December 30 through January 5 were 24, 23, 65, 38, 51, 54, and 50, with a mean of 43.6. 10.7 cm flux was 82.9, 90.9, 91, 91.1, 92.1, 90.6 and 87.7 with a mean of 89.5. Estimated planetary A indices were 5, 4, 3, 3, 4, 4 and 2 with a mean of 3.6. Estimated mid-latitude A indices were 4, 2, 2, 3, 3, 3 and 2 with a mean of 2.7.

Well, Archi, I don't know what the hell you are talking about. If you read what I wrote, you will see "artificial scarcity" and NOTHING about artificial diamonds.

De Beers has enough diamonds stockpiled, that if they were all put on the market at once, would make the value of diamonds ZERO. The Russian were reminded of this and backed off from their plans to greatly expand their exports.

For a number of years, now.

M-B didn't make the top 10 in several studies a few years ago.

BMW's slip is unexpected. Audi has always been good, but not exemplary.

The one that really surprised me was Volkswagen. Top of the bottom

A 1975 Audi Fox purchased new. It was OK, no complaints.

I had a 1976 and 1977 Mercedes 300D (5 cyl Diesels), both purchased new and quality-wise they were nothing to write home about. They were difficult starting in the Midwestern winters, has various random stupid failures like the driver's door window quit working, a muffler failure at 35,000 miles and finally, the '77 engine just kept losing compression. Other than the engine problem, I attributed everything else to being assembled by a drunk on the second shift. I personally have no urge to own another M-B.

A used (second owner) '99 BMW Z-3. It was OK but IMHO, a bit under powered.

Even though the thread is about "furrin" cars, just for the record...

'63 fuel injected Corvette
'70 Vette
'74 Vette

The '63 was the best of the lot. The '74 was really bad due to the early pollution controls.

Current toy car -- 2009 turbocharged GM Kappa roadster purchased new. I love it. No problems (so far) in 15,000 miles. Definitely NOT underpowered. <grin> A nice "halo" car for GM. (Bless you, Mr. Lutz!) Too bad they are no longer made. :-(

I live in Western USA. 24 hours a day I just tune the dial listening for Australian or NZ accents.
Bingo, its like a 55 years ago again. Sanity!
Sorry for East Coast American listeners, but EU programming sucks.
And if you speak Spanish then the SW bands are still your friend.
Young SWers: Aprendan ustedes hablar espanol !
The latinos will be the last stations to fall.
Or (if you can learn CW), those bands in English aren't corrupted yet either.

Yeah, I've never been a big fan of CU, especially after the extortion-for-reviews was revealed, but, in this case, their results are supported by other entities.

These are among the best reported results for these manufacturers.

One puts M-B squarely in the bottom 10.

It seems, we might agree on one thing, diamonds ARE worthless ... many just don't realize that, yet ... the scarcity of microwave produced diamonds are even artificially manipulated to keep their price at about 1/3 to 1/2 the cost of diamonds which are mined. As patents expire, in the future, the prices will plunge ...

you make German cars in China.

A Lot of those made in Germany Mercedes Benz cars exported to America, in America, the brand new engines had to be torn down and rebuilt before they (M B cars) could be sold to the customers.Go Look that up.

The Yaesu price is ridiculous. I am looking at the new Kenwood down conversion TS-590S. It has good close-in performance and excellent sensitivity for $1750.
Also, I notice sensitivity values apply for full hf band and it even has sensitivity specs stated for longwave (Universal web site).

Does not say which specs they are referring to and why state specs for

Well, not entirely worthless ... there is the cost of the carbon (charcoal briquette, carbon dioxide, charred wood, etc.) and the power to produce the diamond ... I think the article mentioned they could be produced at the cost of about $5 USD a caret ... a BIG 10 caret diamond would be $50 USD before manufacturing markup, shipping and dealer markup.

It is up-conversion on 17 meters and close-in performance is not as good. That's why I hope someone posts a review for use as a shortwave receiver.

Definitely some interesting rigs in that price range, including the Ten Tec Eagle, Ten Tec Jupiter and Yaesu FT-950. Take your time and enjoy deliberating. Sometimes people get in a hurry when they're trying to decide which rig to buy. I'd take it slow and think carefully about which features these rigs have and which would be the best "fit" for you and your operating habits. There's a lot to consider. The data on the Sherwood list is only a first step. I envy you...it's fun trying to decide which rig to buy!

Twin (2) Wire Portable Wire Antenna [PWA]
-first- For "Indoors" Use : Take your standard roll of Hook-Up Wire from RadioShack

75-Ft. UL-Recognized Hook-Up Wire* (20 AWG)
http://www.radioshack.com/product/index.jsp?productId=2049740
* Insulated and Stranded Copper Wire

From a Corner of a Room measure the Length of one wall and the Length of the adjacent wall.
Add 15 Feet to these two Lengths = Total Length.
Wall #1 = 10Ft + Wall #2 = 12Ft + 15 Ft = 37 Ft.

Using a 12 Inch Plastic Tube that Slides-Over {fits-over} your Radio's Whip Antenna.

Find the 'Center' {mid-point} of the Length of Wire.
Use Black Electrical Tape to Tape this 'Center' to the Bottom-End of the Plastic Tube; and Laying the Wire Flat along the Tube Tape the Wire to the Top-End of the Tube. Starting at the Bottom-End with the piece of of the end of the Wire that is un-Taped : Wrap the Wire around the Tube for 30~45 Turns either colse together {tight} -or- about one Wire Diameter apart {spaced}. -our-choice- Tape the Wire when you reach the Top-end of the Tube.

Now with both Wires at the Top-End of the of Tube :
Twist the two wires together for 6~7 Feet; and Tie a Loop Knot in them. Take the remaining Lengths of the two Wires and Tie a Loop Knot in each.

Use the Double-Wire Loop Knot to secure the Wires to the Corner where the Wall meets the Ceiling.

Use the Loop Knots in the Wire Ends to secure the one-each of the Wires tightly to one-each of the Adjacent Corners where the Wall meets the Ceiling.

Just slip the Tube over the partially-extended {12 Inches} Radio's Whip Antenna :Functions like a Dipole Antenna and No-Ground is required.

I got a 9 Vdc 1 Spot for all my stomp boxes, and a few X1 PST1200UF , (also sold under Hosa brand on Amazon)for computer speakers and Yaesu HT charger that I leave on all the time. My electric usage is down 80 kWh for the month. I have computers and radios on 24/7. I also got a few $5 LED nightlights at Lowe's. They're helping too. And I did my usual pagan tribute to the sun lighting for the Solstice. Had about 1,000 lamps (all LED).

All my computers use "80 plus" power supplies. My radios are on an Astron switcher. Color me efficient.

I'm good with sharp crystal filters and digitally controlled AGC. I can work the noise comfortably enough. I am a DXer not a contestant. I use digital modes, some beneath the noise floor, so a real time panorama display is superfluous. Besides the K3 is built up the road, not in Asia somewhere.

I think we call that the Sangean ATS-505, decent radio. Have you tried killing power to the building whilst listening with batteries? Is your problem no signal or too much noise? Do you have roof access? What is your building made of?

Sometimes people get in a hurry when they're trying to decide which rig to buy. I'd take it slow and think carefully about which features these rigs have and which would be the best "fit" for you and your operating habits. There's a lot to consider. The data on the Sherwood list is only a first step. I envy you...it's fun trying to decide which rig to buy!

It's great to see two American companies with the lowest priced transceivers right up near the top of the ratings. If you include SDR's, you can make it three.

Liberty Net: January 1, 2011

http://3950.net/2011/01/liberty-net-january-1-2011/

by Kevin Strom, WB4AIO

THE NEW YEARï¿½S EDITION of the Liberty Net was an excellent way to bring in 2011 and explore the important ideas that the billionaires' media purposely suppress. The December snowstorm lowered signal levels on N2IRJï¿½s Beverage antenna, but reception was still good.

Here are a few of the ideas presented this time on amateur radioï¿½s most exciting net:

ï¿½ Is a crash of the dollar inevitable? Will the Washington regimeï¿½s huge debt be repudiated? (38 minutes)

ï¿½ The current Washington plan is to inflate away at least 50 per cent. of Social Securityï¿½s value in the next few years ï¿½ and thatï¿½s actually optimistic. (1 hour 30 minutes)

ï¿½ The central bankers ruling the various countries of the world are competing in a ï¿½race to the bottomï¿½ as they devalue their currencies. None wants to ï¿½winï¿½ the race and have a nearly valueless currency ï¿½ and none wants to ï¿½loseï¿½ the race and have a ï¿½too strongï¿½ currency that makes their exports uncompetitive. But the people always lose as the bankers and economic elite gain from dishonest money. Honest money could and should end this crooked game. (1 hour 51 minutes)

ï¿½ If any amateur operator on a tight budget needs a good SSB transceiver, they should consider a used Swan Cygnet, which are often available for about $100. (2 hours 11 minutes)

ï¿½ As millions of Americans have become penniless and homeless ï¿½ and thus unable to keep a vehicle properly registered and licensed ï¿½ it will become nearly impossible for them to safely transport any property they have managed to maintain, like gold or cash. This is exactly what is desired by the enemies of freedom. (2 hours 19 minutes)

ï¿½ An appeals court ruling now allows warrantless GPS tracking of anyone that the special interests and their kept ï¿½law enforcementï¿½ agencies donï¿½t like. (2 hours 23 minutes)

ï¿½ When the police state moves against you ï¿½ by fabricating evidence or suborning perjury or seizing your assets ï¿½ its agents are ï¿½on the clockï¿½ and paid handsomely for every minute they oppress you and your family. You, on the other hand, have to stop work and deplete your assets to fight back. What is needed is a level playing field for citizens fighting to keep their property and rights. Also needed are laws making such agents personally liable for their depredations and crimes. (2 hours 24 minutes)

ï¿½ Over the years, foolish conservatives with a ï¿½fight terrorismï¿½ and ï¿½law and orderï¿½ mindset supported the Patriot Act and other bills which gave ï¿½Homeland Security,ï¿½ the FBI, the TSA, and other agents of the regime immunity from prosecution for their oppressive acts against citizens. Now Ron Paul has introduced legislation making federal agents subject to the same rules as the rest of us. (2 hours 40 minutes)

ï¿½ There is something admirable in White peopleï¿½s relatively high degree of sentimentality and kindness toward animals and other human races. This quality is good and needs to be developed much further. But our enemies, who share no such emotions, use these innate feelings against us when they manipulate us to ï¿½love the otherï¿½ to the point of giving our countries away ï¿½ in other words, to the point of suicide. (3 hours 30 minutes)

ï¿½ There is a racial/ethnic component to the oligarchy that misrules us: They have separated themselves from the rest of us and regard themselves as a special, chosen people. (3 hours 38 minutes)

Remember that you can receive the Liberty Net on in the area of 3950 kHz (usually above 3962 in recent weeks to escape DRM interference) every Saturday night at 10PM Eastern Time ï¿½ or listen live on the Internet via N2SAG or N2IRJ. And you can listen at your leisure via the mp3 files posted here at http://3950.net every week. Each Saturday nightï¿½s mp3 file is usually posted on Sunday and will be visible that day in the upper right column of this site.

Once again, thanks to W1WCR for running this important and historic discussion net, and thanks also to N2IRJ for making these recordings available.

Now, at 2340, I hear an individual reading some Pirate reception reports. I know who he is, as I recognize the voice!

That's ridiculous. The Founders would laugh you off the board. And some of them were Freemasons.

Jefferson tore down and rebuilt his house several times and suggested treating the Constitution in a similar manner would not be inappropriate.

It is not a sacred text. It's a set of ideas that we agreed to use until something better comes along. It has been altered a couple dozen times. How many times has the flock removed and replaced parts of the Bible? Please, get a grip!

Talk about hyperbole...

And we discuss these matters in Decibels and Microvolts not "tenfolds" nor "percents". Close in dynamic range is very important for DXing in crowded bands and there ain't an antenna made that'll improve that spec, and a they make a few that can degrade it.

I'm not a contester either and I personally wouldn't spring for a rig as pricey as the Yaesu FTDX-5000. At one time I might have been convinced to take the plunge, but I've played with high end rigs and the real world difference in performance between a 5K rig and a $1500 rig is not what the price difference might lead you to expect.

I say this not to disparage the high end rigs, but to celebrate the lower end rigs and what they're capable of!

Apparently not "well regulated" enough. This man has a history with the local police. His police record should have mandated a waiting period and follow-up interviewing before he was allowed to stroll out of the gun store on his way to destroy 20 family's lives.

From details at the scene it appears that the only way anyone else with a gun could have stopped this was if they had their gun already drawn when Jared raised his. 20 shots from a semi-auto takes 6 or 7 seconds tops.

MikePak,

Take the Radio to a Park or the Country Side where you can get at least 100m from any thing Electrical {Electronics} : Try Turning the Shortwave Radio Bands out there. Early Evening about an Hour or two after Sunset.

One of the simplest Indoor Shortwave Radio Listener
(SWL) Antennas you can use with a 'portable' AM/FM Shortwave Radio like the ROBERTS R9914 / Sangean http://www.ogormans.co.uk/images/roberts_r9914_shortwave.jpg http://www.universal-radio.com/catalog/portable/3505.html
ATS-505-P Radio is a basic ready-made FM Folded Dipole Antenna with a 3.5mm Mono-Plug connected to the Leads.

* Extend the Two Arms of the FM Folded Dipole Antenna diagonally across an outside looking Window.

-note- If you can open the Window and it is permitted :
Some people will take a piece of thin wood stick or pvc pipe and use it outside the Window at a diagonal to place the Antenna outside the room; and use some Tape a/o Foam where the twin antenna wires come through the window seal-area.

* Plug the Mono-Plug in to the Radio's "SW" External Antenna Jack

* Turn the Radio 'On'; Tune the Shortwave Bands and Listen.

Soldering Is Required :

Hi Mike,
Besure the radio works first (some kind of sound) Then try what Roy said.

You can make lots of antenna's that are hard to see like, window screen, cross in side of window that you can lay down when not in use or drop a wire down from a window or hide a wire in a tree with out grounding it.

Let us know how it goes!

"The Constitution is a building code, not a blueprint"

Actually it's more like a footing and cornerstone.... you have the base to build the rest but you can't go adding on beyond your footer and cornerstones lest the new additions will crumble from a lack of support and strength.

Which is what we see happening these days.

Once you reach a certain level, the difference is going to be a function of your antenna performance.

But then, that's always true at any level.

During the heyday, Zenith T/Os were known for their exceptional sensitivity and deep reach on crowded bands. With the built-in whip.

Truth is, that T/0's were good, but nothing special. With a hand alignment, they could be made to be reasonably selective, but that legendary sensitivity was merely a perception, and artifically contrived, at that.

With Zenith's lowered threshold, increasing the operating range, of the AGC, and reduced recovery time, T/O's would seem to be more sensitive than the average receiver, when sitting side by side. The deeper reach made quieter signals pop more lively on the T/O than rigs in the same class. And most owners didn't realize that increase in noise along with the signal was not a sign of increased sensitivity.

Even so, T/O's were often $75-100 more than similar radios in the same class.

Real world...they were usually more radio than most listeners would ever need.

Today, a modern rig can easily reach within striking distance of that $5k rig for far less. The difference is often at the very limits of performance, if not the limits of credibility. And the number of features most users will never touch.

For a few thousand, you can improve your radio and improve your performance by a few percent.

For a few hundred you can improve your antenna and improve your performance tenfold.

The first two elements are very necessary :
1 the Radio
2 the Antenna

But without the third element : There may be nothing for the first two to pick-up and hear.
3 the Location
+ The Right Location can make #1 & #2 a Joy to Use.
- The Wrong Location can make #1 & #2

The Communist Manifesto, Mein Kampf, and The Republic were among the favorite books of Jared Lee Loughner, who is the suspected gunmen in today’s deadly shooting that reportedly left six dead and gravely injured a U.S. congresswoman.

Lougher, 22, listed those books as among his favorite on his YouTube channel, in which he wrote that “conscience dreams” were a “great study” at his college, Pima Community College.

One user on Twitter, Caitie Parker, wrote she went to high school, college, and was in a band with the gunman. She said she hadn’t seen him since 2007.

Parker wrote of Lougher, “As I knew him he was left wing, quite liberal and oddly obsessed with the 2012 prophecy.” She also described

On his now deleted MySpace page, Lougher left a series of rants, including:

* If there’s no flag in the constitution then the flag in the film is unknown. There’s no flag in the constitution. Therefore, the flag in the film is unknown. Burn every new and old flag that you see. Burn your flag!”

* “I bet you can imagine this in your mind with a faster speed. Watch this protest in reverse! Ask the local police; ‘What’s your illegal activity on duty?’”

* “If you protest the government then there’s a new government from protesting. There’s not a new government from protesting. Thus, you aren’t protesting the government.”

Three months ago, Loughner made a YouTube video in which he proclaimed, “I know you’re illiterate! This is the greatest protest for exposure into a wrongful act. The school is breaking the constitution. If you watch the video then you’ll understand. The teachers are taking advantage of you in the first and Fifth Amendment.
The United States Constitution, which is the law, can be broken at this school.”

While it may be necessary to add a reaffirmation to some rights which are in danger, you simply don't fix something which does not need fixed.
All which is the Constitution is just fine.

However, all that said, it would be wise to add an amendment which would

905. The Shooting of Rep. Giffords and the Left Wing Smear Machine

When Arizona Congresswoman Gabrielle Giffords was shot in the head and six others were killed Saturday morning by a gunman Jared Loughner, the left wing smear machine went into high gear. Left wing politicians blamed the Tea Party (before the gunman was even named), and left wing hate sites blamed Sarah Palin and Rush Limbaugh for the shooting, when it was actually done by one of their murderous own. It's always one of their own.

Loughner's leftwing high school friend, Caitie Parker, remembers him as a "political radical": "He was left wing," she wrote; "As I knew him he was left wing, quite liberal."

FOX News has reported that the shooter's favorite books are the Communist Manifesto and Mein Kampf. Loughner is also reportedly an atheist. There's an anti-bible quote in one of his videos: "Every United States Military recruit at MEPS in Phoenix is receiving one mini bible before the tests. Jared Loughner is a United States Military recruit at MEPS in Phoenix. Therefore, Jared Loughner is receiving one mini bible before the tests."

http://www.huffingtonpost.com/2011/01/08/jared-lee-loughner-gabrielle-giffords-shooter_n_806243.html

Loughner also has a creepy "music video" up on YouTube, in which he is dressed as a terrorist and burns an American flag. FOX News has confirmed that the hooded figure in the video is indeed Loughner.

http://www.youtube.com/user/Starhitshnaz

Also, Congresswoman Giffords is a major Blue Dog Democrat – almost so right wing that she would be considered a conservative in certain areas. She was on almost every important issue essentially a Republican. Her only major left position was support of Obamacare.

But on immigration, she is a blue dog. She supports Second Amendment gun rights and opposed the ban on guns in Washington, D.C. She is also a very strong supporter of border control.

The left hates her. The DailyKos put up a post on January 6, which has now been pulled, saying: "My CongressWOMAN [Gabrielle Giffords] voted against Nancy Pelosi! And is now DEAD to me!"

This shooting is what they teach, this is the poisonous fruit of their indoctrination. Clearly, Loughner is sick, mentally ill – but suckling at the lefty teat is deadly poison for the soul.

Loughner's mental illness is as obvious as his leftism. He wrote that "the government is implying mind control and brainwash on the people by controlling grammar." He also engaged in some deranged rambling about whether or not he was a terrorist: "If I define terrorist then a terrorist is a person who employs terror or terrorism, especially as a political weapon. I define terrorist. Thus, a terrorist is a person who employs terror or terrorism, especially as a political weapon. If you call me a terrorist then the argument to call me a terrorist is Ad hominem. You call me a terrorist. Thus, the argument to call me a terrorist is Ad hominem."

Loughner was busted on a drug related charge; the information concerning his other arrests is unknown. He did, apparently, issue death threats – though not directly to Gabrielle Giffords. Still, if he had a record or case pending, why did he have possession of a Glock 17 9mm pistola? According to the Daily Caller, Loughner had prior run-ins with the law in the form of at least one arrest, according to two Public Access documents.

http://dailycaller.com/2011/01/08/alleged-ariz-gunman-jared-loughner-had-prior-run-ins-with-police/#ixzz1AUvXi5T2

http://dailycaller.com/wp-content/uploads/2011/01/M-1044.jpg

This reminds me of Ishmael Ax, the slaughterer who mowed down scores at Virginia Tech. He had a psychiatric record – overnight stays in asylums. How did he get a gun? Big government fails us time and time again.

http://atlasshrugs2000.typepad.com/atlas_shrugs/who_is_ismail_ax/

Despite the evidence of the shooter's leftwing politics, the leftist enemedia and culture terrorists are in full assault on the American psyche, blaming Republicans and our most effetctive leaders, spinning their bold-faced lies and using this terrible mass murder to destroy people and the Tea Party.

Hanoi Jane Fonda has blamed the shooting on Sarah Palin and Glenn Beck. Shame on her and on Arizona State Senator Linda Lopez, who blamed the Tea Party on FOX news without any basis in concretes or any knowledge of the identity of the gunman. Shame on Pima County Sheriff Clarence Dupnik, who said that the shooting was provoked by "the vitriol that comes out of certain mouths about tearing down the government." Shame on the New York Times' Paul Krugman, who blamed "the rhetoric of Beck, Limbaugh, etc."

Even the Daily Kos's hate post about Giffords didn't stop Markos Moulitsas, the site's founder, from blaming the shooting on "right-wing rhetoric."

They would never make such a public presumption about jihad or the leftists. Outrageous.

I strongly recommend that left wing defamers and smear merchants tamp down their evil rhetoric and false accusations. They count on the right to do what is proper and decent and maintain a respectful silence (which we always do), while they foam at the mouth with conspiracy theories and outrageous accusations. They expect us to cede them the field, so that by the time we get around to correcting the record, the lies, and the smears — the narrative — is already fixed in America's psyche.

Those days are over.

The six dead innocents of the AZ shooting

Michelle Malkin has the grim list of innocent victims who have died as a result of wounds received during the AZ shootings yesterday.

http://michellemalkin.com/2011/01/09/6-innocents-the-arizona-murder-victims-identified/

Not receiving half the attention accorded to Rep. Giffords, is the tragic death of federal judge John Roll who, unrelated to the shooting by the madman Loughner, received numerous death threats for some of his immigration rulings:

http://voices.washingtonpost.com/44/2011/01/slain-federal-judge-john-roll.html

In February 2009, Roll received hundreds of threats after he allowed a lawsuit filed by illegal immigrants against a rancher to go forward. "They cursed him out, threatened to kill his family, said they'd come and take care of him. They really wanted him dead," a law enforcement official told The Washington Post in May 2009.

Threats against federal judges and prosecutors nationwide have been soaring in recent years. There is no indication he was the gunman's target, and witness accounts describe the shooter as firing at Giffords first.

U.S. marshals put Roll, who was appointed to the federal bench by President George H.W. Bush in 1991, under 24-hour protection for about a month. They guarded his home in a secluded area just outside Tucson, screening his mail and escorting him to court, to the gym and even to Mass.

Roll told the Post in May 2009 that "any judge who goes through this knows it's a stressful situation" and that he and his family were grateful for the protection.

Also killed was a 9 year old girl, Christina Greene. Christina was born on September 11, 2001:

Greene's family says she was vibrant, excited about life, and she was the "best daughter in the world."
Born September 11, 2001, Greene was excited about the political process, was on the student government, and went to the Giffords event Saturday to learn more about the political process, family members say.

Greene attended Mesa Verde Elementary School. She was the only girl on the Canyon Del Oro baseball team. She loved the sport, as well as horseback riding and swimming. She wanted to be a veterinarian.

As aide to the congresswoman, Gabe Zimmerman, died in the attack as well:

Zimmerman was remembered by friends and colleagues on Saturday night as friendly, dedicated and good humored.
He was engaged to be married, according to media reports, and had served as a major point of contact for the congresswoman since 2007.

Zimmerman, who worked out of the congresswoman's Tucson office, was known by local interest groups for going above and beyond the call of duty.

Several photographs on the Internet show Zimmerman, who was a former social worker, smiling with his arms around local community leaders.

Among them was Pat Gould, a support group leader in the local chapter of the Scleroderma Foundation. With Zimmerman's help, the group was able to garner Giffords' support for legislation recognizing the disease.

Also killed in the attack: Dorthy Murray, 76; Dorwin Stoddard, 76; and Phyllis Scheck, 79. According to a tweet from ABC's Jake Tapper who is at the hospital, there are still 4 victims in critical condition and 5 in serious condition. Earlier reports that Giffords woke up and recognized her husband before falling back into unconciousness were false.

So we should tax imported goods more because rich people buy them in disproportionately high amounts and we think the rich should bear a greater burden?

We should dismantle the Army, the Navy, the Air Force, and merge the Marines with the Coast Guard; as guarding our borders is the only reason we need a killing machine? Standing armies were loathed by the Founders as being unspeakably evil.

The Founders were very wise scholars of the classical history of Western civilization. Their educations were not clouded by TV and telephones; they had time and space to think. Our revolution did not happen in a vacuum and neither did the Constitution. A hundred years of very serious conversation about rights of men preceded those events. I agree the Founders should be listened to, but in perspective with Locke and Rousseau [sic] and Adam Smith and the Great Thomas Paine also studied.

And definitely we should drop "so help me God" from the Oath of Office!

When you tax on sales tax we all pay the same because we are "taxing the dollars" NOT the people.

We all pay the same tax since a dollar in the hands of the poor and rich are taxed the same amount and the rich having more dollars is irrelevant since when they spend it it will be taxed equal to the dollar of the poor person.

You are looking at taxing people and you should be looking at taxing dollars.

Every play the game of "Monopoly" which used to be trademarked by Parker Brothers?

Without proper controls, that is what capitalism turns into ... a game where all money, property and wealth ends up in a few hands ... yes, that needs to be kept from happening ...

And, of course, those with the money, or making the money, are going to have to pay the bills. With high unemployment and a decline in the standard of living and average wages, yes, those with the money are going to have to make much larger contributions!

It ain't rocket science dude ... it is simple accounting and economics. Ask any housewife having to balance a checkbook, she should be able to explain the simple concepts, I have outlined, to you.

A flat tax would be most fair, 25% of your income goes to the government, across the board.

You make 20,000 you pay 5,000 in taxes.

You make 1,000,000 you pay 250,000 in taxes.

Actually, poverty has nothing to do with drugs ... it has to do with making drugs criminal ... legalize drugs and let the natural course take over. The saving is cops, prison guards, courts, prisons, etc. would have an overwhelming beneficial effect on our economy. Not to mention halting the billion and trillions flowing from our country to purchase drugs of other nations ... libertarian is the only philosophy to apply to drugs.

Why of course, if the man is currently on parole or probation his right to own a gun should be suspended. If, however, he has paid his debt to society, if mentally sane, he should stand in possession of ALL his rights ... I can agree with that.

However, with the criminally-treasonous-public-servants, we are going to have to expect a lot more of this ... when government no longer represents the peoples' will--the majority of the people, you know this is going to happen.

"Sanity" itself is always determined by the majority, of course ... I think what the majority of the people know the Constitution to mean would be right in line with what the forefathers intents were and are ... indeed, the words have only one meaning. Take the second amendment, it gives the right of guns to PEOPLE and NOT A MILITARY and NOT A MILITIA ... again, DUH!

Don't even give him any credibility, the text is too simple, "A well regulated militia, being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms, shall not be infringed."

It gives the right to keep and bear arms to THE PEOPLE ... not some government organization. It provides the arms to the people so they can use them in support of their government, or to take their government back ... it is for the people to decide ...

Your simple inability to understand plain english and logic has clouded your analysis and conclusion(s!)

English and logic classes should now be able to repair your ignorance!

I can't believe you have such ignorance you need clarification on the Constitution.

Since the majority of the people is the only legitimate government of the USA, it is the definition which that just government holds which is the correct one. Most will not have the same difficulty as you have in understanding that one, single, simple sentence ...

Since the forefathers gave us the duty to take up arms and reclaim the people power if ever the public servants became unresponsive to the majorities wishes, your obfuscation becomes apparent!

Government would never authorize actions against its' illegal actions ... the people must take this upon themselves at that point.

The first sentence of the Declaration asserts as a matter of Natural law the ability of a people to assume political independence, and acknowledges that the grounds for such independence must be reasonable, and therefore explicable, and ought to be explained. As follows:

"When in the Course of human events it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation."

It is quite obvious, the people WILL NEED GUNS to accomplish the above ...

First of all, idiot, it should be obvious, government only has a right to print money for the wealth which is in existence, or that the people wish to accept as debt.

Everyone, perhaps excepting yourself, knows the government has printed a sum of "money created debt" which my children and their childrens-children will now have to pay off ... this is the equivalent to writing a bad check and is criminal ... a common sense of decency is only necessary to realize that--and you, now, seem lacking!

Just because our government has been engaged in criminal activity for a lengthy period of time is no reason to allow them to go on doing so ...

Again, the forefathers intent, with this sentence, the second amendment to The Bill of Rights:
"A well regulated militia, being necessary to the security of a free

Is best seen in some of their quotes:

second will not become the legalized version

I think it's the `well regulated' part which makes it safe and/or open to manipulation and debate.
How did you stand on the Black Panther's actualizing this right in the late 60's? Any power a Governing group takes is available to the opposition when things change.

Absolutely not, "The People" are the majority of American Citizens.
These American Citizens are also the ONLY legitimate government of the USA. To "well regulate" the militia, this government--The People, need to be armed, common sense is all which is necessary here. Or, simply, as the forefathers stated: "A well regulated militia, being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms, shall not be infringed."

And, their quotes help make clear the fact that, they said what they meant and meant what they said:
" The two enemies of the people are criminals and government, so let us tie the second down with the chains of the Constitution so the second will not become the legalized version of the first.
-- Thomas Jefferson

--Samuel Adams

The strongest reason for the people to retain the right to keep and bear arms is, as a last abuse them, which would include their own government."

You can do a comparison and know for yourself:

Just compare to a New World Translation ... or King James, or Catholic, etc.

I'm specifically referring to the Council of Trent/Apocrypha and of course the earlier addition of the New Testament. Modern translations/mistranslations are far too numerous to even be considered.

I'm sure one will be along directly to argue that a correct interpretation is needed to clarify this matter in the opposite direction.

The truth is, and the Court actually got it right, this time, the language could not be clearer: 'the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed.'

In the previous clause, in the language of the times, 'regulated' was a term used in law to describe maintenance of a state of preparedness, or being. And 'Militia' was The People.

In that language, the 2nd Amendment couldn't have been more clear.

Yes, it rather galls me that "some" decided to "rip" seven books from the bible http://www.apologeticspress.org/articles/1817 (for those who need a refresher)

However, anyone with access to a Catholic Bible has access to these seven books ...

Well, I am only surprised that some where confused by "militia." I didn't know that any, let alone so many, were confused by semantics surrounding the word!

It would have taken me quite sometime to think some took it to be: militia = American Military ... a totally false assumption. The American Military stopped representing the goals and wishes of the people many decades ago, along with the criminally-treasonous-public-servants.

Again, I am in total agreement with your statement on the facts.

That's like fearing government isn't it, you sound a bit on the edge to me.... Fear of people with paper you choose to value in their hands is a bit screwy and maybe a sign of problems with reality.

Money isn't the problem....

Take away guns, take away money, take away trans-FATS, take away sugar take away fossil fuels..... you want to take away everything you fear, so as to fix the world. The problem is they're all problems only in "your" head.

Will you next fear and take away kitchen knives and pools and buckets and cars and base ball bats.

Keep in mind, that, at the time, as well, a standing army was forbidden by the Constitution. The peoples' right to keep and bear arms was the first line of defense. Against aggressors foreign and domestic.

The founders had an inate distrust of government, having escaped from a wildly repressive and abusive government, themselves.

An armed people was also an insurance policy to the right of the people to remain free against government abuses.

Absolutely.

It only amazes me that anyone could have gotten though high school and not been aware of these facts, which you have stated well ... however, I graduated high school in 1970. I suspect, some value of education has declined, in intervening years--and actually, I think it quite intentional!

But if someone only thinks someone is out to kill them when they are not and they kill first then it makes them a murderer.

That is sort of like with David Rockefeller where he thinks mass-murder in the millions might help him survive longer when he could die tomorrow anyway. See:

The cameras will just get stolen...

We have lots of cameras here. Red light cams, speed cams, traffic control cams, general snooping cams (mostly in major intersections). We even have cams to watch recycle bins to spot people leaving regular garbage there. Those don't tend to stay long, as the residents like to take wire snips and cut the coax in several places.

We also have the flashing police lights, but here they put the red/blue light bars (smaller versions of the ones on the cop cars) along the expressways every Km or so. They do it to try to trick drivers into thinking there's a cop car ahead and slow down. It doesn't work. The expressway speed cams have warning signs (and audible warnings on GPS) so everyone slows down a hundred meters or so ahead of the cam. This often causes multiple rear-end collisions as the lead car panic slows and since there is rarely more than 5 meters or so between cars there is no way for the following cars to slow down enough to keep from hitting the lead car. All this generally happens at about 130 Km/h (expressway speed limits are either 100 or 110 Km/h).

I would think that constantly exposed to the lights, one would tend to start ignoring them ... this would be bad for real criminals ... LOL

The United States of America is becoming a police state ... when they follow the same tactics used by foreign countries with a lack of respect for peoples rights ... our public servants have become the enemy ... and, there is much proof of this. The USA expects reprisals from its' citizens, perhaps even a full scale revolution, that is the reason big sis is going on the telemonitors in walmarts across the nation ... to get us to turn in others ... like the germans turned in the jews ... like the communists report capitalists ...

It seems the forefathers, here, expected this all too much ... and their warnings were valid. Indeed, now there warnings look prophetic in nature ... we may soon need to all turn ourselves in as we find that living in a police state is not much fun.

Good point but don't forget about David Rockefeller because he might have

Plus I knew a cop that killed someone and got away with it but he still ended up loosing his job so his victory party didn't last very long.

In American, our Constitution demands we AND our public servants are held to equal standards ... if this is NOT happening, that can only be for one reason, power has been usurped from the people and criminals have infiltrated the highest of positions ... and, the Constitution, along with other documents, provide for what to do in that event, and having exhausted the other means.

If you can't do better than name calling, you may as well get a milk crate and a Bible and find a Rush Street corner.

You'd have a great future.

Really? Over here, we merely want to `take away' the `right' to advertise trans-fats as a healthy happy food that comes with a chid's toy, and/or hide the fact you're using them and sue anyone who suggests they're not totally wholesome for `defamation'. `Suger I'm happy to use - even though it severely affects the health of ~30% of the population [as opposed to 25% for opiates], but placing it on the `food pyramid] as an `essential nutrient' isn't disengenious, it's outright falsehood.

So far, the sum total of your discussion has been that you are right and everyone who disagrees with you is wrong, supported by an argument that dismisses as wrong anyone who takes the position that they're right while everyone they disagree with is wrong.

Deliciously tautological. Salted with appropriate name calling. The forensic art of one who'd declare himself king. Because anyone who disagreed with him had to be wrong.

Idi Amin rose to power with just such a strategy.

So did Saddam Hussein.

What's next? Or would you like to know where to rent a wood chipper in my neighborhood. Grower has one by the hour for less than $200. I've got an Envoy with a hitch if it would save you some time.

If you'd actually presented something of an argument that is based in other than repitition, begging the question, and ad-hominem, you may have gained a little more traction.

But as it is, you're skills in discussion have only been in sandbox name calling and the arrogance of someone who believes in his superior position simply because he agrees with himself.
